

AMERICAN ARMOR SPEARHEADS ALLIES IN SHATTERING NAZIS' TUNISIAN ATTACK

Il Duce Admits Italy Stabbed France in Back

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(P)—Benito Mussolini, coughing and puffing defiance through a long speech in answer to Prime Minister Churchill's threat to bomb Italy, out of the war, admitted to his countrymen today that Italy had been forced into the conflict by "the belligerents," but assured the people that they now would fight on to the end.

"I have a vague impression that the Italian people want to hear me," he said.

Then he told them that the Germans "have beaten the Russians," that "victory cannot fail to come to the Axis" and that he "was not surprised by the (Allied) invasion of North Africa." Of the imminent Allied threats to Italy from North Africa, the continuing bombings of the country from British home bases and the added raids promised by Churchill from newly acquired airfields across the Mediterranean, Mussolini said:

But One Front.

"There now is no longer an external and internal front; there is but one front."

"All who can leave must leave our cities. A rightly exodus must also be arranged from cities so only fighting personnel remains."

"We have spent hundreds of millions of lire on shelters that can resist the biggest bombs."

"Churchill asks Italians, 'How long will this last?' I, Mussolini, answer in a most solemn way: 'Forever until we have achieved complete victory.'"

"If I had listened to that hyena Roosevelt, he would have thought me a 'chump.' Churchill says my empire has gone. I reply that the last word has not yet been spoken."

Reads Passages.

At this point the Italian premier read passages from Churchill's appeal to the Italian people to quit the war lest they be bombed into subjection.

In his longest speech of the war and the most urgent, apparently, since the Italian stab in the back of France on June 10, 1940, he spoke bombastically of the exploits of the Caesars and said for Italy it now is the question:

"To be or not to be..."

"The Italian premier flayed President Roosevelt and took Prime Minister Churchill to task as one "intoxicated" on tobacco and liquor, but he got around to agreeing with Mr. Roosevelt's charge of long ago that Italy had stabbed France in the back."

Stabbed France.

"Let us admit that we stabbed France in the back," Mussolini said, "but this is only one stab in the back compared to a hundred stabs France has made. France always has been arrogant."

In his 81-minute speech to the applauding chamber of corporations and to millions of bomb-conscious Italians huddled about loudspeakers in the squares of the threatened land, Mussolini ranged from justifications of Italy's entry into war to a rather lightly considered determination to see it through.

At about the same time in London, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden was telling the house of commons that a new, peaceful preliminary to a new, peaceful world order was "to restrict for all time the aggressive power of Germany and Japan."

"I make no mention of Italy," Eden said, "I do not regard that as a major problem."

"Italy Misunderstood."

Mussolini complained that no one "ever really understood Italy," a statement that conceivably could have included Germany, and added that a neutral Italy would have been maltreated by both belligerents, an inclusive statement certainly embracing Germany's pressure.

He even acknowledged that the German high command had dictated postponement of impatient Italy's entrance into the war to a few days after Italy's own intended.

He praised Japan's belligerence and said she was "invincible." He admitted that the Allied positions in North Africa posed a menace over Italy, but said that with German help Italy would survive. He read excerpts from the speech by Churchill last Sunday.

Give a Family a Lift By Opportunity Gift

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

Here are a few words of explanation about this Opportunity Fund The Constitution is sponsoring.

Money is wanted—in cash or in checks—nickels, dimes, quarters, dollars or whatever you can spare.

Donation of old furniture, old clothes, or any other odds and ends some kind-hearted person might have around his house would not really help in this cause.

These families who are being helped by this Opportunity Fund are families, already established in homes they are struggling to cling to, during a temporary setback that might disrupt them and leave them adrift in the world.

Each Case Checked

Most of these families need only $20 or $30 or $35 a month for a few months to help them pay the rent and buy a few groceries while the mother or the father gets himself established in work he has in sight.

Each case has been carefully checked by the Family Welfare Society.

None of these families could be rated as permanently out of the self-supporting stage. All are of the deserving type that will take care of themselves once they have hurdled the obstacle.

During the 1942 period, money that was donated for the rehabilitation of 41 families, actually was used to put 86 families back on their feet.

Clothing Out of Place

Two groups who adopted a family each year ago have used their monthly contributions to redeem four families each.

Odd gifts of clothing would be out of place in this campaign, because of the probability that the clothes would not fit members of those families who will benefit from this fund.

This is merely a temporary lift with the rent, or the food that is being given.

Send in your donation to the Opportunity Fund, H. H. Trank, treasurer, in care of The Constitution.

3,800 Nazis Die As Reds Take Strategic Hill

By HENRY C. CASSIDY.

MOSCOW, Dec. 3 (Thursday).—(P)—The Red Army punched more holes in the German lines between Veliki Luki and Rzhev on the central front yesterday and captured a strategic height southwest of Stalingrad in a continuing joint offensive that left more than 3,800 dead Nazis in its wake, the Russians announced today.

The toll of Nazi killed and captured in two weeks has mounted to more than 166,000 on the basis of Russian announcements. Hundreds of tanks have been knocked out and vast piles of equipment captured in drives that slackened somewhat in some sectors so the Russians could consolidate their positions on the snow-covered steps.

Hilltop Stormed

The hilltop stormed and captured southwest of Stalingrad was not identified in the regular mid-night communiqué, but earlier the newspaper Red Star said that Yuzhnaya height had fallen to the Russians. That hill had dominated the southern approaches to Stalingrad and the Germans had used it for weeks both for valuable artillery and observation posts.

Several inhabited localities were reported seized by the Russians, but their names were not disclosed.

The Russians again spoke of "stubborn enemy resistance" on both fronts, but said that 2,500 Nazis fell yesterday in two battles between Veliki Luki and Rzhev, where the Red Army again "foraged ahead."

Nineteen enemy tanks were crippled, and 12 guns, eight tanks, eight mortars, several hundred

Tire 'Irregularities' Charged to Officer

Federal indictment charging violation of tire rationing regulations were returned at Gainesville, Ga., yesterday against Police Chief J. T. Dailey, of DeKalb county, and three other men.

Announcement of the indictments was made by A. Walton Nail, chief regional OPA enforcement attorney.

Besides Chief Dailey, those against whom indictments were returned were Roy Hall, 22, of Dawsonville; Louis P. Nelson, 26, alias James Sykes, another frequently convicted liquor runner and an associate of Hall, and Arnold E. Hamner, 30, recently ousted chairman of the Dawson County Ration Board at Dawsonville, Nail said.

The indictments marked the second case in the northern judicial district involving alleged violation of tire rationing regulations, Nail pointed out.

Chief Dailey, who has served as DeKalb county police head since 1935, Hall and Nelson were indicted jointly for alleged conspiracy to violate the Second War Powers Act and tire rationing regulations and to defraud the United States by diverting automobile tires into improper channels.

Hamner, a former resident of Alabama, was indicted by himself and termed by the government as a "co-conspirator." He is charged with violating tire rationing regulations and the Second War Powers Act by improperly obtaining tires.

Chief Dailey was out of the city yesterday on a hunting trip and was unavailable for comment. He is expected to return to Atlanta today.

However, DeKalb County Commissioner Scott Candler said last night no action would be taken by DeKalb county officials relative to Chief Dailey immediately.

Candler said: "Chief Dailey is expressing gratitude for the star which had been sent to her from Atlanta to wear in honor of a loved one in the armed forces."

German Casualties 'Heavy'; U. S. Fliers Smash Axis Tanks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Superbly-equipped and desert-toughened American streamlined armored forces spearheaded Allied action today in hurling back the heaviest German counterattack of the Tunisian campaign as Allied troops pressed forward on Bizerte and Tunis under the protection of increasing aerial forays.

A dispatch from Wes Gallagher, Associated Press correspondent at the headquarters of the Allied forces in North Africa, quoted a headquarters spokesman as saying that the Americans "played a big part in repulsing the German counterattacks at Tebourba," a rail junction within 35 miles of Bizerte.

American medium bombers, escorted by P-38 fighters, assaulted the Tunis airdrome in the fifth Allied raid on that field in 44 hours. At least 12 Axis bombers and transports were destroyed on the ground, the pilots reported.

Nazi Tanks Destroyed. With the decisive battle for Bizerte and Tunis thus joined, Allied headquarters reported the Germans had suffered "heavy losses" in their unsuccessful counterattack.

In the continuing action, United States P-38 pursuit planes were reported to have knocked out a number of German tanks in the Djedeida area, near Tunis.

There also were reports of heavy action around Mateur, 12 miles southwest of Bizerte, as the Allied column drove on toward the coast to cleave the naval base from Tunis, the capital.

Pierce fighting was also reported at the apex of the Allied wedge around Djedeida, 15 miles north-west of Tunis. The battle in this sector, where the Axis has concentrated the bulk of its forces, was believed by London observers to be entering its final phase.

Air Fields Pounded. Tunis was reported by Reuters News Agency to be within artillery range of the forward Allied forces. Font du Fahs, a strategic point near the coast, was stormed by French troops while British parachute troops occupied another important air field in the Bizerte area, forcing the Luftwaffe to resort more and more to Sicilian bases.

DNB, the official German news agency, reported that a German tank attack on Tebourba was "particularly successful," resulting in "heavy losses" for the "retreating" Americans.

The Allied headquarters communiqué today said Allied bombers were keeping up their assaults on the airfields at Tunis and Bizerte.

Light bombers and fighters also are operating in support of the forward troops, the communiqué said. It acknowledged the loss of five planes, but declared that seven enemy aircraft were destroyed.

Airdrome Wrecked. A hint that the British Navy soon would be heard from in the seashore action was contained in the communiqué, which said briefly, but significantly, that "the Royal Navy is assisting in the provision of cover for the advance of our forces."

London newspapers published a report, attributed to the Morocco radio and unconfirmed from any other source, that the airdrome at Tebourba had been destroyed.

Atlantans Will See Paratrooper Show

Paratroopers with fixed bayonets and full equipment will march into Atlanta tomorrow morning for a military spectacle shrouded in complete wartime secrecy.

Army officials last night disclosed that units participating would be paratroopers, after Mayor Hartsfield announced a military show would be staged in the downtown area "sometime between 9:30 and 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning."

The paratroopers participating will have completed a continuous march "of more than 100 miles, made through all kinds of weather and over a difficult route," Army officials said. They noted the feat "will be without precedent in military history."

Both Mayor Hartsfield and the Fourth Service Command remained silent about the exact number of paratroopers expected to participate in the show, or where they are from. The line of march also is a military secret.

"I can tell the people of Atlanta only that if they gather along Peachtree street shortly before 10 o'clock tomorrow morning they will be treated to one of the most inspiring military exhibitions we have seen since the United States entered the war," Mayor Hartsfield declared.

Local bands will meet the marching unit at Baker and Peachtree streets and accompany it to Five Points.

Mayor Hartsfield will greet the paratroopers in a ceremony scheduled for 10 o'clock in the morning at Five Points.

"Everyone interested in this nation's military progress should be gathered along the route of march, or at Five Points to honor these men of outstanding accomplishments," the mayor said.

"I am sure the sight will be an inspiration to our citizens who are working so valiantly in the war effort."

"We will have a chance to see for ourselves one of the most skilled units in the United States Army, one of the units engaged in a dangerous front-line job."

Military regulations prohibit the publication of troop movements or the identification of military units. Until the paratroopers have come and gone, no one will know exactly who they are, what they are doing or where they are going.

Somewhat Colder Today, Predicts weatherman

After the mercury dropped to the freezing point yesterday morning, the Weather Bureau last night predicted another moderate freeze for this morning.

High winds held the mercury to a high reading of 49 degrees yesterday.

Texan Praises Stars of Honor

"One can wear them proudly, but not boastingly"—is the praise given to Stars of Honor, distributed by The Constitution.

It is a perfect size, said Mrs. Carl L. DeHay, of Cedar Springs, Texas, in expressing gratitude for the star which had been sent to her from Atlanta to wear in honor of a loved one in the armed forces.

Stars of Honor, made of sterling silver and equipped with a sturdy catch, may be obtained at the Want Ad desk of The Constitution for 20 cents each, plus 2 cents federal jewelry tax; by mail, for 25 cents, which includes postage and handling.

Gets N. Y. Traffic Ticket—Never Been There!

DUBLIN, Ga., Dec. 2.—Dr. J. L. Smalley, Dublin veterinarian, having a correspondence argument with the municipal court of New York city over a traffic law violation. It all started when the surprised Dublinite received a summons by mail to appear in the magistrate's court to answer for an over-parking charge. It so happens that Dr. Smalley has never even been in New York—much less violated a traffic regulation there—and he so informed the court. Back came another notice giving the number of the car listed on the charge. It was Dr. Smalley's number all right, but the make of the car was not his. He has written the court again. Presumably the officer who booked the case made an error in writing the number on his record. And when the owner failed to show up in traffic court, the Georgia auto license bureau was asked for the name of the owner assigned the number recorded by the officer.

William Jones, Navy Air Cadet, Killed in Crash

Accident Occurred During Night Flight Near Dallas, Texas.

Cadet William G. "Billy" Jones, 19, of the United States Navy Air Corps, former star halfback on the Tech High football team, died early yesterday after his plane crashed during a night flight late Tuesday at Grant Prairie field near Dallas, Texas, his parents learned here yesterday.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Jones, live at 2609 Memorial drive, S. E. They said that no details were given in the message from the Navy Department, except that young Jones' plane crashed at about 10 o'clock Tuesday night and he died at 1 o'clock yesterday morning.

Young Jones was graduated from Tech High school in June, 1941. While there he was a star halfback on the football eleven and an outstanding track man. He received a medal from the National Athletic Scholastic Society, which requires winning a letter in a major sport and a scholastic average of at least 90 for membership.

Cadet Jones entered the Navy Air Corps last June. He was to have completed his training at Grand Prairie this week and was to be transferred to the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station.

A brother, Harry J. Jones Jr., was graduated from Tech High in 1939. He also played football there. Harry is now in the United States Army Signal Corps. Another brother, Johnny, is a guard on the Smith eleven this season.

The body is being brought to Atlanta today. H. M. Patterson and Son will announce funeral plans.

Load to Capacity, Coal Men Warned

Asserting trucks should be loaded to capacity whenever possible, E. J. Tracy, of the regional ODT office, warned members of the Atlanta Coal Dealers' Association last night that "strict observance of this rule will save off a possible reduction in deliveries."

Approximately 50 dealers attended the meeting in the Chamber of Commerce building to hear Tracy Charles Farrar, executive vice president of the association, and L. L. Niedrick, OPA price specialist.

Airport Kiwanians Elect and Install

William C. Palmour was elected president of the airport area Kiwanis Club at the annual banquet last night in the Atlanta Athletic Club.

The Rev. John Tate was named vice president and Dr. Edwin Dickey was re-elected secretary. New members of the board are Dr. T. I. Cantrell, Sidney Davidson, Jack H. Gray, A. P. Smith, Ira Smith, J. W. Stephenson and Dr. Dickey.

The officers were installed by Faber A. Bollinger, a past president of the Atlanta Kiwanis Club.

Tubby Walton Reported In 'Good Condition'

"Tubby" Walton, well-known Atlanta businessman, was reported in good condition yesterday at Piedmont hospital, which he entered Tuesday night due to a head injury suffered during the storm.

EXPLAIN NEW WPB PLAN—Federal officials yesterday explained to businessmen here how the new WPB controlled materials plan will operate, at a meeting in the Ansley hotel. Thornton, WPB regional director; Frank Player, regional chief of the controlled materials plan, and Royal Firman, of Washington, special WPB consultant.

Allies Down New Technique 23 Jap Zeros Used to Keep Youth Alive

A difficult treatment, which doctors said might have been the first of its kind in medical history, kept Carl Eason, 19, of Campbellton road, from smothering to death by breathing, it was learned here yesterday.

Eason's lungs were punctured in a wreck Saturday on Campbellton road, and the air was slowly leaking into the space between the ribs and the lungs, causing the lungs to contract. Each time he breathed, more air was drawn into the chest and Eason was slowly suffocating.

Eason was rushed to Georgia Baptist hospital, where physicians injected a hollow needle into the space where the air was being drawn, arranged a water trap to act as a valve and allowed the air to escape through the needle, thus relieving the pressure on the lungs.

Physicians yesterday said that Eason's condition was satisfactory and that his recovery was practically assured.

Carl Willis, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Willis, of Tifton, is recovering at a hospital here after being the subject of an unusual bronchoscopic operation at that institution.

Two weeks ago the boy was playing with his puppy and eating a pecan. He choked momentarily, but recovered immediately and nothing was thought of the incident until a semi-pneumonic condition developed.

X-rays showed nothing but a collapsed lung. However, the bronchoscope found and removed half of a pecan meat from the child's lung and latest reports from the hospital indicate that Carl will be able to play with his puppy at Christmas time—without pecans.

Magazine at Base Informs Soldiers

Soldiers at Lawson General hospital are kept on their toes as to what is happening at the base by the "Lawson News," a magazine type publication issued semi-monthly.

The free magazine has 12 pages full of editorials, articles submitted by the men, pictures and illustrated drawings. Ten editions have been issued to patients and other soldiers in the Medical Corps, and five have been printed on the multilith printing machine, set up at the hospital.

Raymond Styles Leaves For Post in Algiers

Raymond Styles, 30-year-old Atlantan, this week is on his way to Algiers, where he will serve as an attaché of the American consulate. Styles returned to Atlanta last September after spending six months as a Japanese prisoner in Shanghai.

He has been an employee of the State Department for two years. He was formerly secretary to the American ambassador to Moscow and was in Shanghai when war was declared.

Succumbs To Heart Attack; Funeral Services This Afternoon

John Prather Stinson, 44, of 931 Williams Mill road, N. E., a salesman for the Tractor & Machinery Company, died unexpectedly of a heart attack Tuesday in Perry, Ga., it was learned here last night.

Stinson, widely known to southern contractors and equipment men, had been to Brunswick on a business trip. He was stricken ill at Perry and died a short time later.

A native of Talbotton, he came to Atlanta more than 15 years ago. He was connected with the J. B. McCrary Company before joining the Tractor & Machinery Company in 1936.

Survivors include his wife, the former Estelle Watkins, a son, J. P. Stinson Jr., and a sister, Mrs. J. C. Cook.

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill, with Dr. Louis D. Newton officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Education Lag Charged to U. S. Schools

Should Have Expected Jap Attack, Dr. Ben Wood Declares.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 2.—(P) The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools was told today that "only people educated in our schools would have been surprised" at Japan's surprise attack on Pearl Harbor.

Dr. Ben D. Wood, chairman of the joint advisory committee to the Civil Aeronautics Administration and the United States Office of Education, said "our teachers should have called attention to Japan's history of treachery, and asserted: 'We educators left our people at the mercy of isolation propagandists.'"

"To the extent American educators have allowed our people to sleep for the last 10 years, we have been acting as though we saw a four-year-old playing with a rattlesnake, and told him it was a harmless white bunny," he observed.

"It is literally impossible to overestimate the damage created by an American education lag."

LECTURES ON RUSSIA—Walter Duranty, famous war correspondent and author, described Russia's battle against the Nazis last night in the city auditorium. He is shown preparing the talk at his room in the Henry Grady hotel.

Russians Anxious For Revenge, Desire Peace, Duranty Declares

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

Two questions, constant in the American minds, about the future plans of Soviet Russia, were answered for an Atlanta audience last night by Walter Duranty, a world-known reporter, who has spent 20 years watching the Communist government as it struggled to build a worthy nation out of the ruins left by the last of the Czars.

First, said Duranty, Russian troops will enter Germany as soon as it is possible.

"They will avenge a record of unimaginable horrors inflicted on their countrymen by the invading German armies," he said.

"Once Russia starts moving ahead in this war you won't be able to stop her."

And, then, Duranty assured his listeners:

"I'm sure the Russians want peace. By all means they will want to seal a friendship with the United States after this war."

Duranty lectured in the city auditorium last night as a guest of the Business and Professional Women's Division of the Hadsah. He was introduced to his audience by Ralph McGill, editor of The Constitution, who described Duranty's long service as a reporter to fit him for the discussion of his subject, "Is Russia the Key?"

"Russia Wants Peace."

Duranty believes Russia is the key to world peace today, along with the United States, and in his answers to questions from the audience after the lecture, he insisted:

"Russia wants peace more than the United States does."

"The Russians want to show the world how their nation can progress by industrial and intellectual development—and not by soapbox oratory."

"They want to get rid of the foundries of war."

"They have a large area to develop, an area larger than the whole of the United States, Canada and Mexico."

"I don't believe the Russians are trying to spread their Communist ideas into other countries of the world. I am sure they are sure they will gain more by showing the world that men and women can live happily and prosper under their system."

Of Communists active in America, Duranty said:

"If they're crazy about being Communists, why don't they go to Russia?"

"State Capitalism"

Duranty's lecture traced the development of the modern Russian government during the last 20 years of its ascendancy.

He told how oppressed the people of that country were when the Czaristic government was overthrown; how the leaders assumed a proprietary form of guidance of the masses who were 80 per cent illiterate. He spoke of the development of Bolshevism and Communism into a sort of state religion and he denied that Stalin's government today denies freedom of worship.

"Russia today operates as a form of state capitalism," he said. "Everything in business and construction is operated and financed by the government. The people work for wages that are considered fair. Anyone who piles up a fortune inconsistent with his work is reported to the government. No private investment of capital is allowed. You can't even rent rooms in your home on a profiteering basis. The workers are well paid and, every year, more state service is given to the people."

The Russian of today, Duranty pictured as a child in contrast with the American who has not only had his freedom in this country for years, but in whose minds the spirit of freedom has been inculcated through his ancestry for more than a thousand years.

Describes Stalin.

"The Russian, as a result of this new public education, is just beginning to learn to operate on his own," he said. "He is just like any other child who is just learning. At times, he is sulky; sometimes frivolous."

Russians, thus far, he said, have

'Best Seller' Dug Out of Tobacco Patch

Statement Made by Mrs. Chevalier, Author of 'Drivin' Woman.'

By CELESTINE SIBLEY.

She dug her story out of a tobacco patch, spent a dozen years writing and rewriting it annually, had it turned down by five "top-flight New York publishers"—and then Margaret Mitchell and the war came along and made it a best seller.

That's Elizabeth Pickett Chevalier's own account of the birth and blossoming of her book, "Drivin' Woman," one of the outselling novels of the year now headed for movie stardom.

She made up their minds whether they want Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon or Katharine Hepburn and Spencer Tracy in the stellar roles.

"When I wrote the story it was controversial," smiled Mrs. Chevalier over a stack of books-to-be autographed at Rich's tea yesterday afternoon. "Now it's escapist."

Escape From War.

"You see in the early '30's there was a controversy between agrarianism and the tobacco trusts—you in the south know all about that! Well the war started and the controversy was forgotten so people read my book to get away from the war."

Miss Mitchell's part in selling "Drivin' Woman," billed by its publishers as a book which "takes up where 'Gone With the Wind' left off," was to create a vogue for a historical novel about southern farmers. Stark Young's "So Red the Rose," "Anthony Adverse" and other historical novels also had a hand in making the way for her book, Mrs. Chevalier believes.

The blue-eyed, silver-haired author cut her writing teeth on a couple of ponderous tomes for the American Red Cross shortly after her graduation from Wellesley. Then she went to the west coast and made a career of writing for the movies. She was about to undertake an assignment for "Thunderbolt" in December 1928, when she went back to her grandfather's tobacco farm in Maysville, Ky.

There she "dug 'Drivin' Woman' out of a tobacco patch." Her grandmother's diary, the experiences of her grandparents' neighbors in Maysville, and a love story which she wrote during her college days were combined for her first novel and the surname of her best friend, the former Cornelia Ensign, of Georgia, was borrowed for the heroine of the book.

"I still get letters from indignant members of the Moncure family," recounted Mrs. Chevalier delightedly, "but before I gave Merry that name in the book I asked the permission of Cornelia and her husband. They said they would be make notable gains.

"The Germans can concentrate more men at a given point faster than can the Russians," he said.

But as he explained, the Russians are just learning, still learning, and learning fast although they have been at it only 20 years.

Although American engineers instructed the Russians at the beginning of that nation's construction programs under this new government, Duranty explained:

"The Russian engineers could learn no more than the interpreters were able to transmit to them."

Of war losses on the Russian front, Duranty said:

"The figures have been grossly exaggerated on both sides. I'd say, however, that the losses, proportionately have been 7-1-2 Russians to 5 Germans."

The Russian, today, said Duranty is fighting with the ardor of a patriot because he has something for which to lay down his life. He didn't have that under the Czars.

Mrs. Adalbert Freedman presided at the meeting.

'DROVE WOMAN'—Elizabeth Pickett Chevalier, author of the best-selling novel, "Drivin' Woman," protested at an autograph tea yesterday afternoon that giving an interview and writing her name and a personal message in several hundred books did not push her at all. Mrs. Chevalier is pleased that her most enthusiastic readers are in prison, where the violent pace of her book, as well as the "virtue, courage, loyalty and stamina" of her heroine, seem to have evoked great admiration.

"I still get letters from indignant members of the Moncure family," recounted Mrs. Chevalier delightedly, "but before I gave Merry that name in the book I asked the permission of Cornelia and her husband. They said they would be

Commissioners Urge Widening Of Bell Bridge

Construction Said Inadequate for Handling Traffic Flow.

In one of the briefest regular sessions in a long time, Fulton county commissioners passed a resolution yesterday urging the Federal Bureau of Roads to widen the new bridge being built over the Chattahoochee near the Bell bomber plant.

Commissioner I. Gloor Hailey, acting as chairman in the absence of Troy G. Chastain, said that the 26-foot bridge in course of construction could not possibly accommodate the traffic to and from the plant.

The board sent to the department of public welfare a message from the county board of health stating that, owing to its reduced personnel, it could not undertake to examine the 1,700 odd county relief clients, as requested by the department.

The commissioners suggested Grady hospital would be the best place for such examinations.

flattered and to prove they weren't dead they gave a party for us in Washington November 1. To top it all, they invited all the other Moncures. Of course, only those who weren't mad came—the others stayed away."

Mrs. Chevalier went to high school in a suburb of Chicago with Dorothy Thompson, Ernest Hemingway and Bruce Barton.

"I later asked our English teacher if she recognized Ernest's style from his high school days. She said she certainly did. She'd done her best to kill that style when he was in her class."

Mrs. Chevalier and her lawyer husband, Stuart Chevalier, came to Atlanta from Warm Springs. They were entertained at a luncheon and a tea yesterday and attended a press club party for Walter Duranty during the afternoon.

Man Sentenced For Drawing Knife

A bit of old-fashioned melodrama in a draft board office was disclosed yesterday in criminal court of Fulton county.

Testimony before Judge Jesse M. Wood revealed a Negro listed as James Roosevelt Hodges, alias Hardwick, 42, drew a knife on Deputy Sheriff O. C. Puckett, chairman of Board No. 7, who promptly drew a revolver and arrested the Negro.

Hodges allegedly drew his weapon in protest over his draft classification. He was sentenced to 12 months on public works.

Justice Reid Mentioned by Times For Byrnes Vacancy

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 2.—The name of Chief Justice Charles S. Reid, of the Georgia supreme court, has been mentioned again as a possible appointee to the United States supreme court.

It was disclosed here that a recent issue of the New York Times, in a story dealing with possible successors to the post left vacant by the resignation of James F. Byrnes, mentioned the name of Chief Justice Reid.

The New York Times story pointed out that President Roosevelt has given no hint to a successor to Byrnes, who resigned the supreme court bench to become economic stabilization director, but that:

"In recent days a new suggestion has come to the fore, a certain group of lawyers pushing the candidacy of Charles S. Reid, chief justice of the Georgia supreme court, said to be the youngest state supreme court justice in the country. He is 45."

The name of Justice Reid was first mentioned in connection with a probable successor to Byrnes last October 3, when Byrnes became stabilization director. At that time, the name of another Georgian, Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley, also was mentioned.

Justice Reid began the practice of law in Gainesville in 1922. From 1930 to 1938 he served as special counsel for the State Banking Department, and was appointed chief justice in 1938. In 1940, he was re-elected without opposition for a six-year term.

The Times' story also mentioned the names of Attorney General Francis Biddle and Senator Barkley.

Mrs. G. C. Cash, 48, Dies in Florida

Mrs. G. C. Cash, 48, former employee of the Atlanta waterworks department, died Tuesday at a hospital in Orlando, Fla., it was learned here yesterday.

Mrs. Cash worked in the Atlanta waterworks department for six years but resigned 16 years ago to go with her family to Florida. She was the daughter of J. C. Estes, owner of the Estes Furniture Store for many years.

She is survived by her husband; two daughters, Misses Vera and Harriett Cash; a sister, Mrs. H. G. Hester, and a brother, N. B. Estes, of Jacksonville, Fla.

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Clarkston Baptist church, with the Rev. C. C. Singleton and the Rev. Charles Stewart officiating. Burial will be in the Friendship cemetery, near Tucker.

Richard Warns State To Save Highway Funds

Urges Georgia To Adopt 'Ironclad' Safeguards Against Diversion.

Georgia's dwindling highway funds need "ironclad safeguards to protect them against diversion," Walter L. Richard, chairman of the Georgia Highway Users' Conference, said yesterday.

Richard recommended adoption of a constitutional amendment similar to the amendments ratified by the people of Iowa, Oregon and West Virginia at the November 3, election.

"The scarcity of materials and of labor has halted all new road construction for the duration of the war," Richard said, "and this will halt the long-range highway improvement program undertaken through the joint planning of the State Highway Commission and the Federal Public Roads Administration. These urgently needed improvement and modernization projects must be undertaken just as soon as the war is over. Only by preserving surplus highway funds for the duration of the war will the money be available for this work when needed."

FBI Needs Help For Clerical Jobs

Rapid expansion of the volume and types of work done by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in connection with the internal security program during wartime has practically put the FBI into the employment business.

Yesterday F. R. Hammack, special agent in charge of the Atlanta field office, issued another call for clerical workers to fill positions both in the various field offices throughout the United States and in Washington. Positions open carry starting salaries ranging from $1,400 to $1,620 per year.

In particular demand are persons to fill positions as clerks, typists and stenographers. All applicants must be American citizens, at least 18 years of age, high school graduates, in good physical condition, have vision corrected to at least 20-20 and good hearing.

Maion Courts Named To Taxpayers' Group

Federal Funds Sought For Augusta Schools

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Senator George and Representative Brown said today they were trying to expedite action on an application of Richmond county, Georgia, school authorities for $30,521 from the Federal Works Agency to care for children brought into the area because of war work.

The application, approved by the Federal Office of Education, was forwarded by the Atlanta FWA office last Saturday, but officials here said they had no record of it.

Bill To Increase F. D. R. Tariff Power Stands Crucial Test

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—A measure giving President Roosevelt wartime powers to suspend tariff regulations successfully weathered a death-sentence test in the House Ways and Means Committee today, but there were mounting signs that stiff opposition from the congressional farm bloc lay ahead.

Rogers' Winter Dies at 55 of Heart Attack

Well-Known Newspaperman Here for Past 30 Years.

Rogers Winter, 55, widely known Atlanta newspaperman for the past 30 years, was found dead yesterday morning at his room in a downtown hotel. Death was caused by a heart attack.

Winter was for nearly 15 years political reporter for the Atlanta Journal and during that time won many friends throughout the state and the nation.

He came to Atlanta in 1912 from Augusta, where he had been a reporter for the Augusta Chronicle for several years. He went to work for The Journal and was there until he became secretary of the Stone Mountain Memorial Association, a post which he held for six years.

Since the association became inactive several years ago, Winter had been doing independent writing for several Georgia newspapers. At the time of his death he was director of publicity for the state agricultural department.

Born in Calhoun, he was the son of the late Rev. Lovick P. Winter, Methodist minister, and the former Miss Philo Rogers, of Gainesville.

Winter attended Young Harris College, but left before he graduated to enter newspaper work. Survivors include his wife (three sons, Lieutenant Rogers Winter Jr., of the United States Army Air Corps; Carter Winter, of New York City; and Wallace Winter, a student at the University of Georgia, and two sisters, Mrs. Fred Layton, of Augusta, and Mrs. John D. Stewart, of Atlanta.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Brandon-Bond-Condor.

L. D. Woods Heads

Dublin Exchange Club

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. DUBLIN, Ga., Dec. 2.—L. D. Woods, insurance agency manager, Tuesday was elected president of the Dublin Exchange Club for the ensuing year, succeeding Hyrell S. Kendrick.

Other officers elected included Dr. W. J. Bixler, first vice president and C. F. Andrews, second vice president. Spright Dowell Jr. was named secretary-treasurer.

The club voted to assume full responsibility for furnishing local nursery schools with cod liver oil during the coming year. In past years the club and a local drug concern split the cost for the medicine.

The committee voted 13-to-7 against tabling the legislation. Such tabling, in addition to giving the measure a slow death this year, would likely have meant added difficulties for it next year when a new congress takes over with increased Republican strength.

Modified Measure. The action was followed swiftly by adoption of a motion to have Chairman Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, introduce a modified measure, drafted by a subcommittee. This would grant the tariff powers but omit Mr. Roosevelt's requested authority to suspend immigration regulations.

Under the motion, Doughton introduced the revised measure only as a "basis for public hearings," so that it may be further rewritten by the full committee.

Representative Jenkins, Republican, Ohio, describing the bill in its present form as "a wholesale transfer of legislative authority to the executive," said it had been agreed to continue the hearings "long enough to give people from the far corners of the country to get here to present their views."

Full Hearings Urged. This reopened the possibility that congressional approval might be blocked this year for lack of time. Minority Leader McNary, Republican, Oregon, has served notice he will insist upon full public hearings when the bill reaches the senate.

Jenkins declared members of the committee had received growing protests against any broad grant of authority to suspend tariff regulations. He said protests came from cattle, dairy and grain sections.

Doughton emphasized the re-drafted bill is not a "committee bill"—that is, a measure supported by a majority of the members.

As now drafted, the powers granted in the bill would expire automatically December 31, 1943, or with the end of the war, or upon passage of a joint resolution terminating them, whichever date came first.

Abbeville Methodist

Is Licensed To Preach

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. ABBEVILLE, Ga., Dec. 2.—W. Austin Wilson, steward in the Abbeville Methodist church, has completed a course in the ministerial work and has been granted a license to preach. Rev. Wilson preached his first sermon Sunday. He is a rural mail carrier for Abbeville and also vice president of the Georgia Rural Letter Carriers Association, but does not intend to give up his job as carrier only to preach as a supply minister when called upon.

YULE FUNDS.

DUBLIN, Ga., Dec. 2.—The 400 members of the Christmas club of the Citizens and Southern bank of Dublin will receive $20,000 in checks being mailed out today, it was announced by W. S. Simmons, assistant cashier.

Official U. S. Navy Photo. HE'LL ROLL WITH IT SOON—Lieutenant Commander Robert J. Archer, U. S. N., shown here gazing pensively at a revolving globe, is leaving December 10 for duty with the fleet. He has been a member of the staff of the Naval R. O. T. C. at Georgia Tech for the last year, and with his wife and two little daughters has lived at 1303 Oakdale road, N. E. And it's back to sea soon!

Convict Dies in Naval Tests-- Granted Posthumous Pardon

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—(P)—Voting a posthumous pardon to Arthur St. Germain, 27, of Haverhill, the Massachusetts executive council revealed today that the young man, serving a long term at the Norfolk state prison colony, had given his life in secret Navy tests which may involve the saving of thousands of lives.

In a tribute to the young man, Governor Leverett Saltonstall, declared that St. Germain, with 39 other prisoners at the colony, had submitted voluntarily to tests which "involved the possible saving of thousands of lives, not only on the battlefield but among society, itself."

Complete Pardon. "Now, therefore, as Arthur St. Germain died that others might live, I hereby grant him a full and complete pardon of all offenses." Commissioner Lyman made a public letter from Mrs. St. Germain in which she wrote: "It has been just one week since I laid my Arthur away to rest. It was a great shock to me and I am still in a daze. Arthur was a lovely son; he was so kind and so loving and even in prison he was always thinking of me. Arthur and I had great plans as to what we would do when he came home. He was good about his money and I always did a lot to help lift my burden. My oldest son is in the Army and my youngest son is waiting to be called. My children are my life. I want to thank you for myself and my children for your letter. When I kneel at night to say my rosary I will ask our Lord to watch over you and Mrs. Lyman and that dear boy of yours. May you never have to know the sorrow I am going through. I am going to try so hard to smile."

Silent on Tests. Neither the Governor nor Corrections Commissioner Arthur T. Lyman would discuss the tests on the ground they were naval secrets. St. Germain had served 18 months of a five-to-seven year sentence. State officials said in view of the heroic nature of the young prisoner's death, they felt the nature of the offense of which he was convicted should be withheld. They said the young man's character and record had been good before his conviction. To the mother, Mrs. Beulah St. Germain, Corrections Commissioner Lyman wrote: "I am not at liberty at the present moment to say much to you. I do want you to know that in my opinion your son gave his life for those in the armed services and for other members of his country just exactly as much as my boy, who is on a destroyer, would if he were to lose his life fighting the enemy. I saw Arthur and spoke to him the afternoon before he died and he had been showing steady improvement and was in relatively good spirits."

Decisive Smash At Rommel's Troops Seen Not Far Off

CAIRO, Dec. 2.—(AP)—British artillery was wheeled into attack position before El Agheila today and already had "successfully engaged" German field guns while Eighth Army patrols probed the enemy strength on the border of Libya and Tripolitania, a communique said.

Revolving Door Cost 200 Lives, Probers Told

Reflameproofing Testimony Also Given Boston Fire Inquiry Board.

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—(P)—An assertion that a revolving door cost two or three hundred lives in the Cocoanut Grove fire, and testimony that originally fireproofed decorations required annual reflameproofing were given to a board of inquiry today as the toll of lives in the fire disaster reached toward 500.

While law enforcement officials pressed their plans for presentation of evidence for action by a grand jury, possibly next week, church bells tolled for more than 100 funeral services in various New England communities, some of them marking the burial of two or three persons in the same family.

James H. Mooney, Boston building commissioner, told an investigating board that on the basis of the building laws Cocoanut Grove provided normal egress for 1,397 persons, and when asked how many exits should be provided for a panic crowd, he answered: "I don't believe a panic crowd could be handled even if more exits were provided. I think there would have been a great loss of life."

Asked how he accounted for the great loss of life at the night club, Mooney said: "I don't believe most of the people reached the exits."

A 3-year-old child was revealed as one of those in the night club when the fire broke out last Saturday night, and it was believed the youngster was among those who escaped. Meanwhile, revised figures of the Boston Committee on Public Safety showed 490 lost their lives in the holocaust, and 174 other persons were in hospitals. Only three unidentified bodies remained in Boston mortuaries.

Ren O. Bodenhorn, of Boston, a designer of night clubs here and in New York, told of the fireproofing of the Cocoanut Grove. He said the decorative materials were fireproofed when installed, but required reflameproofing at least once a year.

George J. Hayes, of Quincy, a patron, told the inquiry: "If it wasn't for that revolving door, two or three hundred persons could have gotten out." Fire Commissioner William A. Reilly interjected: "I think you're right."

"HAPPY BIRTHDAY"—Marion D. Eidson, right, is being congratulated by Staff Sergeant Charlie Morgan, of the Marine Corps, after his enlistment in the Marines on his seventeenth birthday. Eidson applied for enlistment in mid-October but was turned down because he was under age. He joined up the minute he was old enough.

Dream Comes True; Youth, 17, Joins Marines on His Birthday

The boys get up early to enlist in the United States Marine Corps. Marion D. Eidson, 402 Atlanta avenue, S. E., had been waiting two hours at the recruiting station when Staff Sergeant Charlie Morgan arrived yesterday morning to open up.

The youngster reached his 17th birthday yesterday and wanted to join America's celebrated fighting force as soon as possible. He had applied for enlistment in the Marines in mid-October and passed his physical. However, he was rejected at that time because, while filling out his papers, Marine recruiting officers discovered he was under age.

"Come back, young man, when you're 17," they told him. He came back, and waited, shivering, in a thin lumberpacket, for the office to open. Warmed again by the time he had finished signing his enlistment papers, Eidson beamed. "I've been dreaming about being a Marine for over two years. Now my dream has come true—on my birthday."

Eidson is the son of Mrs. R. D. Eidson, of Atlanta. He attended Tech High school before enlisting in the Marines. He was sworn in this morning for Parris Island, S. C., for 10 weeks of basic training.

Other quarter, that the British First Army had cut the coastal highway between the strong points, thus freeing its hand for a drive on Tunis, already less than 12 miles away from Allied advance units and within artillery range. The railway already is severed.

American P-38's and British Spitfires swept widely over the French protectorate, shooting down eight Germans and losing only one plane in the last 24 hours, headquarters said. Flying Fortresses have virtually wrecked the Aquina airfield at Tunis as well as the air base at Bizerte. The Berlin radio said the British, American and French forces "have reached Axis defense lines before Tunis and Bizerte," indicating that the decisive battle either was joined or imminent.

A French and American column previously was reported to have breached the eastern coastal road between Sfax and Gabes, severing Axis communications with Tripoli. Thus the 20,000 to 30,000 Germans and Italians were loosely wedged into isolated positions around Bizerte, Tunis and Gabes for reduction in detail.

Bombers continued nonstop raids on Bizerte, where huge fires were set at the waterfront, and on Tunis and Tripoli. Others raked Sicily from one end to the other, seeking to immobilize the fountain-head of enemy supplies, reinforcements and airpower.

Both German land and air forces are still fighting hard and making no effort to pull out," an Allied headquarters spokesman said. He reiterated that a hard fight was ahead, that there was no evidence of a German withdrawal.

The Morocco radio said Allied troops were fighting a sizeable Axis force between Gabes and Sfax on the east coast of Tunisia. Patrols have been active there several days and the main enemy troops were believed to be Italian. Germans are concentrated at Bizerte and Tunis.

Across Tripolitania at El Agheila, the reinforced British Eighth Army gave signs that it was ready to attack Marshal Rommel's strong defense line. Artillery, patrols and planes were active. Perhaps preparing the home front for another setback, the Germans said the British had been reinforced with a tank division and added fighter planes.

Darlan Move "Daring."
The German communique said the Allies in Tunisia were routed from several villages and that parachute troops had been dispersed and that "numerous enemy prisoners were taken."

The diplomatic correspondent of Reuters described the action of Admiral Darlan in naming himself chief of state in French Africa and creating an imperial council as "a daring move on the political chessboard."

This, Reuters said, presented the United States with an "embarrassing fait accompli" leaving General De Gaulle, of the Fighting French, out in the cold.

Treasury Issues Regulations Governing Pegging of Salaries

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(P)—The Treasury today issued detailed regulations designed, generally speaking, to limit top salaries to a "basic amount" of $67,200 starting in 1943 and to hold salaries of most other white collar workers at about present levels.

Although the regulations, issued in accordance with Presidential orders, ran into many thousands of words, officials freely acknowledged that they left many questions unanswered, and advised interested persons: "When in doubt, consult the nearest stabilization office."

Except for farm workers, the regulations cover all salaries over $5,000 a year and those under $5,000 which are paid to unorganized executive, administrative and professional persons.

Dealing with the higher salaries, the regulations start off by saying that no salary may be paid which after deduction of federal income taxes would exceed $25,000. But for the purpose of the regulations, the phrase "income taxes" is defined in such a way that the "basic salary" allowable is $67,200.

Some Allowances
In addition, higher salaries may be paid under certain circumstances. Allowances over and above the $67,200 will be permitted to permit the employee to "maintain his customary contributions to charitable, educational or other organizations."

However, the employee must establish "to the satisfaction" of the government that he cannot maintain these contributions from his other income, without "undue hardship."

Similarly allowances may be made for insurance premiums, provided the employee cannot pay them from other income "without disposing of assets at a substantial financial loss resulting in undue hardship." The same kind of allowances are permissible for fixed obligations—which are defined as "any enforceable liability of the employee the amount of which liability was fixed and determined on October 3, 1942."

Also, if the employee cannot meet his income taxes due on past income without sacrificing assets and suffering undue hardship, he may be allowed sufficient additional salary to take care of the taxes. Thus, it was apparent that in many cases the gross salary allowed would be far above $67,200.

With regard to 1942 high bracket salaries, the regulations provide that an employee can receive the same amount he got in 1941, but cannot get increases beyond a "basic" figure of $54,428 unless his salary is fixed under a bona fide contract in effect on October 3, 1942. The contract, it was added, may consist of a resolution by a company's board of directors.

Concerning other salaries, raises and decreases will be possible, but most of them must first be approved by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Both employers and employees will be held responsible for enforcement of the program and in cases of multiple employers all will be expected to see to it that their combined payments to the employee involved do not exceed the limit.

For the most part, the motive behind increases or decreases in salaries will be the prime consideration of the bureau in handling cases of unlawful payments. Otherwise, the detailed regulations merely expanded on the general program outlined by President Roosevelt, Economic Stabilization Director Byrnes and Assistant Treasury Secretary John L. Sullivan in previous discussions.

The regulations made clear that bonuses, gifts, loans, commissions, fees, additional compensation and any other remuneration in any form would be considered as falling within the concept of salary or salary payment and therefore subject to provisions of the stabilization order.

However, the bureau left a loophole for payment of customary Christmas bonuses provided they do not exceed those paid last year. "A bonus or other form of additional compensation to such employee for the last bonus year ending before October 3, 1942, does not require approval by the commissioner," the regulations said.

Burden on Employer.
"In addition, a bonus based upon a fixed percentage of salary, where the percentage has not been changed does not require approval by the commissioner, even though the amount may be increased due to an authorized increase in salary."

The regulations also declared that although the terms "salary" and "salary payment" do not include any compensation other than for personal services of an employee, the "commissioner is not precluded from determining after investigation that amounts denominated, for example, as rents or royalties, are in fact salary payments subject to the controls set forth in these regulations."

The regulations stated that the burden of justifying an increase in salary rate "shall in every instance be upon the employer."

"Increases in salary rates will not be approved," the regulations continued, "unless necessary to correct maladjustments or inequalities or to aid in the effective prosecution of the war."

A promise made by an employer to his employees prior to October 3, 1942, that salaries would be increased in the future, the regulations added, "is generally to be ignored in determining whether an increase after that date should be approved."

An increase in salaries below $5,000 may be approved, however, "if to deny such increase would be to force the continuation of a salary which is below the general level existing for the same or comparable work in the local area on September 15, 1942."

In cases of salaries of less than $5,000 existing on October 3 or established in accordance with the regulations, the general rule is that no decrease can be made by the employer below the highest rate paid for such work in the local area between January 1 and September 15.

"A decrease is permitted, however," the regulations stated, "with the approval of the commissioner in order to correct a gross inequity in a case or to aid in the effective prosecution of the war."

Stewart Saye Succumbs at Vet Hospital

Rose From Ranks to Captain During World War I.

Stewart D. (Strawberry) Saye, 52, who rose from the ranks to a captain in the United States Army during World War I while serving with the famous "Rainbow Division," died yesterday at the Atlanta Veterans' hospital.

He had been ill for two years. A native of Athens, he had been an electrical contractor in Albany since the war.

He joined the Army in 1916 as a private and served on the Mexican border. At the outbreak of the war he was promoted to a sergeant and sent to France.

There he served under General Douglas MacArthur in the battles of Baccarat, Esperance-Souain, Champagne-Marne, Aisne-Marne, Saessay-Pannes, and took part in the great Meuse-Argonne offensive. His company fought by the side of Sergeant Alvin York's unit.

Survivors are his wife, the former Miss Eddy Sanders, of Albany, and two sisters, Mrs. N. A. Batchelder, of Key West, Fla., and Mrs. W. S. Ewing, of Sebring, Fla.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Thomas Funeral Home in Albany.

ARMY ENLISTMENTS BREAK ALL RECORDS

Army enlistments during October, a total of 14,427 volunteers, broke all known records of Army monthly enlistments for the seven southeastern states, Fourth Service Command Headquarters announced yesterday.

This figure is 5,637 more than enlistments for September, which Army officials considered unusually high, and among those enlisting, 9,913 joined up for immediate service. Of these, 48 qualified for appointment as aviation cadets.

The Enlisted Reserve Corps reported 3,980 new men, of whom 1,722 will be called as aviation cadets, and 808 were recruited under the college enlisted reserve program.

The WAACs had 534 enlistees, which more than doubled their total of 258 in September.

JOSEPH A. HICKS GETS PROMOTION

Joseph A. Hicks, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hicks, of 369 Grant street, has recently been promoted to private first class at the 540th Basic Flying Training Squadron, Merced, Calif., where he is stationed.

He was inducted at Fort McPherson, and was stationed at Keesler Field, Miss., for one month prior to being sent to his present post. He was graduated from Hoke Smith Junior High school, and operated an elevator in civilian life.

THREE ATLANTANS BECOME ENSIGNS

William B. Schwartz, Thomas B. Heya.

Graduating with the largest class of Naval Reserve officers ever to be sworn in at one time, three Atlantans will be commissioned as ensigns today at the Midshipman's School in New York city.

These men are: William Bernstein Schwartz, of 1725 Cornell road; Thomas Baisden Heya, of 1635 Peachtree street, and Harvey Lindenthal Cosper, of 869 Virginia avenue.

The three ensigns completed the four-month V-7 training course to win their commissions, and after short leaves, will be assigned to active duty at undesignated posts.

FORMER TEACHER IS MADE ENSIGN

Franklin L. B. Wall, former teacher in the Atlanta public schools, was recently commissioned an ensign in the United States Naval Reserve and reported to Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., on November 2, for training.

At Harvard Ensign Wall is taking indoctrination training in communications. He received his degree from Duke University, and in civilian life was a Spanish teacher at Fulton High and Decatur Boys High.

GEORGIA SOLDIER NOW IN AFRICA

Private First Class Marion E. Thompson, formerly of Lithonia, Ga., is now with the American expeditionary force in North-West Africa, according to word to his parents received recently. Mrs. M. E. Thompson, of Lithonia, his mother, said he wrote that he had been in the North African invasion, and seen a great deal of action with a field artillery unit. Maxton E. Thompson has been in the Army a year, and was in England two months before being sent to Africa.

ATLANTANS ENROLLED IN MECHANICS' SCHOOL

Four more Atlantans enrolled this week in the airplane mechanics' school at Keesler Field, Miss., to undergo 16 weeks of instruction in the maintenance of the huge B-24 "Liberator" bombers. Having already completed their basic training, these men will be qualified for active line duty on completion of this course. They are: Thomas N. Kinnebrew, of

Hospital Built in 1844 To Be Razed at Key West

KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 2.—(AP)—The Marine hospital, established here in 1844 by the United States Public Health Service, will be abandoned December 31, and the buildings will be razed to make way for new storehouses for the Navy base.

Surgeon General Thomas Parman, of the Public Health Service, notified Dr. T. H. Rose, surgeon in charge of the hospital, to cease admitting patients December 21.

The hospital, one of the oldest operated by the service, has accommodations for 65 beds, but has been occupied by as many as 120 patients. It was used by the Navy during the Civil, Spanish and first World Wars.

Actor Tony Martin Asks To Be Gunner

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Crooner Tony Martin, dismissed from the Navy, appeared today at his draft board with a request that he be sent to an Army gunnery school.

The actor, relieved from Navy duty for "unfitness" after 11 months service, ended a 17-hour bus trip from San Francisco this morning and went immediately to his board's headquarters in the city hall here. He was wearing civilian clothes borrowed from a friend.

"I had some gunnery experience in the Navy," he declared, "and I hope to be sent somewhere for Army gunnery training."

The board announced that his case would be considered at its next regular meeting, scheduled tomorrow.

President of Ecuador Visits Stock Exchange

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP)—President Carlos A. Arroyo Del Rio, of Ecuador, visited the Stock Exchange today and watched trading on the exchange floor. Greeted by the exchange's president, Emil Schram, and by Robert L. Stott, chairman of the board, the Ecuadorian chief executive congratulated the exchange for carrying on its business in the midst of war.

U. S. ARGENTINE PARLEY.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Experts representing the United States and Argentine governments began talks today looking toward an agreement under which Argentina would obtain oil equipment from the United States in return for the contribution of Argentina's tankers to an American tanker pool. Argentina was understood to have accepted the proposal in principle.

F. D. R. Gives Ickes Broad New Powers Over Gas Industry

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt gave Secretary Ickes sweeping new powers over the petroleum industry today, plus special authority to control oil and gasoline rationing in areas where there is a shortage of those supplies.

The announcement apparently signaled the final abandonment of any plans to shift Ickes to the Labor Department and make him administrator of n. a. n. power. Some said Ickes was loath to take that double post.

Remaining as secretary of the interior, he will also have the title of petroleum administrator. Explaining the President's order, Ickes said he would have power to issue and enforce necessary orders and directives regulating all operations of the vast petroleum industry. Ickes for some time has been "petroleum co-ordinator for war," but his powers will now be considerably broader.

Scope of Authority. However, the scope of the authority over rationing will not extend to the areas in which gasoline is rationed as a means of conserving tires. That authority is left with the rubber administrator, William M. Jeffers.

Gasoline is, however, rationed in 17 eastern states and in the District of Columbia because it is scarce along the eastern seaboard. And the rationing in that area very definitely falls within Ickes' new domain.

The President's order, a legislative document prepared by Harold D. Smith, the budget director, said on this point that Ickes should be consulted on all civilian rationing of petroleum and:

Petroleum for War. "In those instances where rationing is for the purpose of maintaining adequate supplies of petroleum for war and essential industrial and civilian requirements, (he shall) determine, after advising with the War Production Board, the areas and the times within which such rationing should be effective and the amount of petroleum available for such purpose."

This power was formerly wielded by the War Production Board, with the Office of Price Administration supervising the actual rationing. OPA will continue to handle this phase of the problem, but under Ickes' direction.

Some suggested that the new order would prevent the recurrence of a recent situation, Ickes, as petroleum co-ordinator, but powerless to act, pleaded with WPB to cut eastern civilian consumption by 139,000 barrels daily. WPB ordered a study, and later the weekly eastern ration was cut from four to three gallons. Under the new setup, Ickes could have ordered the reduction at once.

Dogwood Room Will Open Tonight

The new Dogwood room of the Henry Grady hotel, featuring the most luxurious champagne bar in the south will be opened formally tonight, it was announced yesterday by Juddy Johnson, manager.

Eddie Farley, the man who wrote "The Music Goes Round and Round" will bring his Musical Mania into this popular new night spot to provide the entertainment for early dancing crowds.

The new room, which is decorated with rose taffeta and tinted mirrors, is completely separate from the Paradise room. Both rooms will have their own bands and shows, Johnson announced.

OPA Authorizes Raise On Lake Freight Rate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—To encourage the heaviest possible shipment of iron ore down the Great Lakes this year, the Office of Price Administration today authorized an average increase of 25 cents a gross ton in the lake freight rate for ore shipped during December.

The normal lake shipping season closed November 30. OPA simultaneously announced that owners of the iron ore would be allowed to pass on the exact amount of the higher freight to their customers.

The increase is to compensate for higher costs resulting from the government's wish to have ore shipments continue as long as possible past the official season closing date.

Telepathy Act By Dr. Passer Big Attraction

Crowds Amazed Here by Performance at Rain-Bow Roof.

Dr. Passer, former music and drama critic for the Prager Tagblatt, Prague Czechoslovakia, who turned his hobby of mental telepathy into his profession when Hitler turned his thoughts to war, currently is amazing crowds atop the Ansley Hotel Rainbow Roof with his mystic powers of transferring one's thoughts from their mind to his own.

Declaring fortune telling and mind reading are "the bunk," Dr. Passer, a doctor of psychology, disproved any belief that his "hobby"—mental telepathy—is false when he obeyed the commands of a newspaper reporter's mind during a visit to The Constitution newsroom yesterday. The reporter, through the medium of mental telepathy, instructed Passer to trot around the room and pick up a basket and place it on another desk in the office. This he did with much grace, and not a word was spoken between them.

Passer says during his show at the Rainbow Roof he gives the dancers the opportunity of selecting three tasks for him to do. Anything, such as remove a man's hat, or recite a telephone number in an Atlanta telephone book. He goes out of the room and when he returns his assistant—Dee Passer—concentrates on the task he is to do. He does it. During each show, one member of the audience hides a straight pin anywhere in the room, while Dr. Passer is absent. When he returns he goes straight to the pin, wherever it may be, and retrieves it.

175 Trained Workers To Aid Farmers in South

BRIDGETON, N. J., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Their work here finished, 175 experienced farm workers left yesterday by train for the south, where they will help southern farmers with their crops.

They were part of a group of 1,000 workers transported to Bridgeton, where the FSA maintains labor supply center. "These workers have proved their worth by saving many valuable crops," said J. H. Wood, regional FSA director.

Wood and his men farmers "are begging to have them brought back next spring."

DOUBLES RECORD. ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 2.—Mrs. J. S. Butler, of Monroe county, doubled her estimated budget of canned foods of 340 quarts and canned 780 quarts of fruits and vegetables this year. ## 2 New Films, Three Holdovers Make Up Week's Movie Bills

Two new films, "Thunderbirds" at the Fox and "You Can't Escape Forever," plus three holdovers complete the movie bill of fare for the new cinema week beginning tomorrow.

Fox

Twentieth-Century Fox's thrilling technicolor story dealing with the training of war pilots, "Thunderbirds," starring Gene Tierney, Preston Foster and John Sutton comes to the screen of the Fox theater tomorrow.

Produced by Atlanta's Lamar Trotti, "Thunderbirds" is packed with thrills and romance as it traces the training of a group of young airmen from the time they arrive at Thunderbird field in western United States, to the time they hop off for foreign ports.

Royal

Starring George Brent and Brenda Marshall in the roles of newspaper reporters, "You Can't Escape Forever" comes to the Roxy theater tomorrow for a week's engagement.

Brenda, so the story goes, is assigned to cover the electrocution of a prisoner. She faints before the "juice" is switched on and doesn't recover until the execution is supposedly over. To punish her for getting "scooped," Brent assigns her to write a love-column column. From here the picture proceeds to a highly dramatic, yet funny climax.

Loew's Grand

"For Me and My Gal," starring Judy Garland, Gene Kelly and George Murphy, M-G-M's musical-comedy featuring songs of the World War I days, will play for another week at the Loew's Grand theater.

The story revolves around the efforts of a trio of vaudeville performers to make the "grade" at the famous Palace theater in New York. Kelly, a newcomer from the New York stage, makes his debut in this film. Miss Garland sings the lyrics to many of the old-time favorites.

Rialto

"My Sister Eileen" is still going strong at the Rialto, where Manager Bill Murray announced it will be held for another week, beginning today.

Rosalind Russell and Janet Blair are the feminine stars, while the male lead goes to Brian Aherne. Miss Blair and Miss Russell are seen as two small-town girls who venture to New York seeking careers. But instead of careers they find difficulties galore, much to the amusement of the theater audience.

Rhodes

A tender romance filmed against the vast background of the north woods is the Rhodes theater's next feature, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," which opens at this theater today. Sylvia Sydney, Fred MacMurray and Henry Fonda are the stars.

Produced by Walter Wanger, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" tells the story of how the primitive mountain families quarrel among themselves. It is filmed in Technicolor.

Detroit Still To Issue Rural Gas Certificates

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—County farm transportation committees will handle the appeals of farmers for more gasoline for farm trucks, the Office of Defense Transportation said today, but will not issue certificates of war necessity themselves.

Edson Raff Promoted To Rank of Full Colonel

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Lieutenant Colonel Edson Raff, who trained United States parachute troops in Great Britain for the invasion of North Africa, was promoted to full colonel today by Lieutenant General Dwight Eisenhower in recognition of the accomplishments of his outfit in the African action.

It officially was disclosed that Colonel Raff's men celebrated his 35th birthday November 15 by landing from the air on a Tunisian airfield, capturing it, and then beating off Axis attempts to regain the field.

DeKalb County Police Chief Indicted By U. S. Jurors

one of the best law enforcement officers in Georgia. Every DeKalb county official is convinced of that and we will stand by him until we find out what this is all about."

Chief Dailey is a former member of the Atlanta police department. He was appointed DeKalb county police chief by the late DeKalb County Commissioner Charles Matthews and has served continuously since, having been reappointed by Commissioner Candier.

Roy Hall is at present a resident of Dawson county, but was originally from Lumpkin county. He has been arrested a number of times since 1937 for liquor and lottery violations and has paid fines ranging from $100 to $500, according to police records.

He has served time, since some of the offenses charged in the present indictment, in the Fulton county chain gang for a liquor violation. He was released on October 11.

All Four at Liberty

Nelson has a record of violations similar to Hall and has been convicted and paid fines, it was also revealed by police records.

The four men named in the indictments were at liberty last night, federal officials said, as no bonds had been set or posted, and none had been taken into custody by arresting officers.

United States Attorney J. Ellis Mundy presented the case to the grand jury at Gainesville and W. A. Thornton, Georgia state OPA investigator, was credited with "cracking" the case, according to Nall.

The first case in the northern judicial district involving violation of tire rationing regulations was October 7 and 8 when a federal grand jury in Atlanta returned a number of indictments against Barney L. Garrett, B. M. Aldredge and Roy M. Roberts, Nall said.

Garrett, Aldredge and Roberts were charged with obtaining tires through the use of counterfeit tire rationing certificates and with conspiracy to violate the second war powers act.

Information Withheld

Nall said that Hamner, a sawmill operator at Dawsonville, was appointed chairman of the ration board there April 20, 1942, and was relieved of his office October 24. Nall swore out a warrant November 20 against Hamner, charging violation of OPA rationing regulations, and at that time said:

"We are making no exceptions in enforcing OPA regulations. Neither personalities nor official connections will be allowed to impede proper enforcement of the law."

Making public some of the facts which resulted in the grand jury's action yesterday at Gainesville, Nall, admittedly withholding other facts "to protect witnesses," said:

"On May 7 State Highway Patrolman Eugene Hollis picked up Louis P. Nelson near Flowery Branch, on the Buford highway, for speeding. There were three new tires in the car. Nelson first told Hollis he didn't know the tires were in the car."

"Later, after being held in jail at Gainesville, he said the car and tires belonged to Roy Hall."

Reveals "Conference"

"On May 9 Arnold Hamner, then chairman of the Dawson county local war price and rationing board at Dawsonville, obtained the tires from Sheriff A. W. Bell, of Hall county, who had been authorized to release them, and delivered one or more of the tires to Hall."

"On the same day Roy Hall conferred with J. T. Dailey on the steps of the DeKalb county courthouse in Decatur about the unlawful acquisition of new automobile tires."

About May 15 Dailey brought seven new tires to Ward's hotel on the new Macon highway in his official police automobile for delivery to Roy Hall. Hall received these tires at Ward's hotel."

"On the night of July 28 Dailey was at Windsor Castles, on the Buford highway, in Dailey's official automobile as chief of DeKalb county police."

"A young woman saw two Negro servants attached to the place put two wrapped tires in Dailey's car. She became suspicious and took the number of the car while Dailey was supervising the placing of the tires into the car."

"She promptly notified this of the case because of the great public interest involved. The indictment thus far cover only a part of the transactions of which we have knowledge. There is a very definite pattern. The investigation will continue until the whole situation is cleared."

Nall added that penalties involve both prison sentences and heavy fines upon conviction.

dred motor vehicles and other material were captured, the communiqué said.

(The German radio acknowledged "local Russian successes" at Bely, well inside the Velikie Luki-Rzhev-Vyazma triangle on the central front, and also at Demyansk, southeast of Lake Ilmen, a sector thus far not mentioned by the Russians. The Germans also suggested another powerful Russian offensive was brewing southeast of Voronezh, between the present active theaters. The Nazis told of a heavy concentration of Russian forces and equipment in the Buturlinovka-Kalach-Pavlovsk triangle below Voronezh and said Nazi airmen already were attacking there.) The Russians said they had knocked out or captured a total of 42 German tanks yesterday, and that the Red Air Force destroyed another 20 on Tuesday as well as 150 trucks with troops and supplies.

600 Nazis Wiped Out
Northwest of Stalingrad where the Russians are fighting their way down the eastern bank of the Don river behind the Nazi siege army that has been stalled for 100 days before that Volga City, the communiqué said the Red Army was methodically destroying enemy gun emplacements, dugouts and blockhouses. One tank unit was said to have killed 200 Germans, crippled seven tanks and captured 10 mortars with their stockpiles of ammunition.

In another sector of this salient between the Don and Volga rivers, the communiqué said Russian troops beat off German counterattacks and wiped out 600 Nazis. Southwest of Stalingrad more than 500 more Germans fell, the Russians said, and the Red Army also destroyed eight enemy tanks, 31 guns, 18 trucks and 16 ammunition wagons.

Central Front Retreat

Inside Stalingrad only artillery and patrol activities occurred yesterday in the northern factory area, but one enemy infantry company was said to have been destroyed.

Dispatches said the Germans still were clinging to their positions in the city although weakened by the withdrawal of some units to counter Soviet advances elsewhere. The newspaper Red Star also said the Nazis were being hammered into gradual retreat on the central front where many German divisions had lost more than half their men.

Restrict Sale Of Grid Tickets, Bowls Urged

clamation: Dr. R. B. Homan Jr., El Paso, Texas, director of the Sun Bowl, and Joseph David, New Orleans, president of the Sugar Bowl organization.

Eastman's telegram follows: "Undoubtedly you are familiar with campaign to reduce passenger travel and need for voluntary curtailment by public of all travel not absolutely necessary."

"In making arrangements for bowl game I urge careful consideration be given elements of common carrier transportation in distribution of tickets."

"Current passenger transportation shortage demands that travel be minimized and that ticket distribution be confined to area where game is played similar to Army-Navy game arrangements. Long distance travel of fans and team followers must be discouraged."

"These steps to conserve transportation facilities are essential if overburdening of common carriers with resultant adverse effect on essential transportation is to be avoided, especially important during holiday period when troop movements require utilization of so much equipment. Your co-operation and advice as to action taken will be appreciated."

Sugar Bowl Ready To Co-operate

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Joseph B. David, president of the Sugar Bowl, in which Tulsa meets Tennessee New Year's Day, today said his group would "co-operate in every way possible" with the Office of Defense Transportation which today asked sponsors of the five big New Year's football games to sell tickets only in the immediate areas in which the games will be played.

David said the request had been received from the ODT in Washington, and that he had telegraphed the director, "assuring him of our desire to fully co-operate in every way possible."

David said the Sugar Bowl group had done no out-of-town advertising and solicited no out-of-town ticket sales.

Orange Bowl Is Willing

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Oscar E. Donly Jr., president of the sponsoring committee, said today the Orange Bowl will co-operate with the Office of Defense Transportation efforts to hold down long-distance travel to the New Year's Day football games.

"We have planned all along to dispose of all our tickets in Florida," he declared. "There are enough persons in this area who want to see the game to fill the stadium."

"We have done no advertising outside of the state, and have made no effort to sell tickets to persons a long distance from Miami."

Student Salesmen Now Selling Bonds

Students in the class on "Salesmanship" at Commercial High school have adapted themselves to the war effort by promoting the sale of war bonds and stamps within their school and at the same time promoting their own sales ability. In the campaign, which was started at the beginning of the school year, they have already sold $3,500 worth of bonds and stamps. The class, with the assistance of their teacher, Mrs. Ann Netherlands, was organized under the leadership of Bill Robbins and Carlton Harris.

VICTORY!

JUST one year ago, come Monday, December 7th, they asked for it at Pearl Harbor. And today, just twelve months later, we're dishing it out!

Yes, this "soft, luxury-loving" nation of ours, disdained by the forces of deceit, brutality and oppression, has become a people aroused to the defense of its liberty. Devoted to the ways of peace, we have turned with one thought and one purpose to the grim designs of war.

Men and women, young and old, in our factories, our farms and our homes have answered the call. For twelve months, we have tightened our belts without complaint, asking only to be shown the way.

We have learned to do without, and to get along with less. We buy War Bonds. We ration our food, our gasoline, our tires. We scour our homes for rubber, save fat for powder, turn in scrap for guns. We volunteer for Civilian Defense jobs, for USO service, for the Red Cross, for War Chest drives, for a hundred and one causes allied with war.

And meanwhile, we have worked. Our fighting forces are in the field today, carrying the war to the enemy, because the men and women of American industry have achieved an undreamed-of miracle of production. In twelve short months, we have delivered to our heroic soldiers and sailors the planes, tanks, guns and ships to challenge foes who have had a decade of preparation.

As the anniversary of the infamous day rolls past, the men and women of Philco who have had a part in this vast program of preparation, pause only to reflect on what America's strength and unity of purpose can achieve. We are ready now for any sacrifice—to work and to fight for Victory! Not as slaves under the dictator's lash, not with minds poisoned by false prophets, but as a nation united in freedom, eager and willing to work together for the common goal.

84 Ships Built In Past Month

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—American shipbuilders moved nearer President Roosevelt's 1942 objective of 8,000,000 tons of new cargo vessels, the Maritime Commission announced today, by delivering 84 vessels, totaling 891,700 deadweight tons in November.

The month's shipyard production raised the year's total to 625 vessels of 6,890,000 tons, leaving 1,110,000 tons to be delivered in December if the President's "Blue-print for Victory" goal is to be met.

The commission said its December schedules indicate the shipyards "will turn out the required tonnage." This would mean a record-breaking achievement of 100 vessels or more in December.

Narragansett Boat Capsizes; 21 Feared Lost

Two Seamen Survive; Five Bodies Are Recovered.

NEWPORT, R. I., Dec. 2.—(AP)—A Navy Liberty boat, filled with men returning from shore leave, capsized in Narragansett bay early today and between 14 and 21 sailors were feared lost.

Two sailors, J. B. Kelly and L. J. Hinsen, both seamen second class, were known to have survived. Navy officers at Newport said they were not sure, but that they believed the boat had carried 18 men. Earlier, however, one of the survivors was quoted as saying he thought 23 men were aboard.

Jamestown firemen recovered five bodies and the boat itself, a motor whale boat, was found wedged between rocks on Conanicut island on which Jamestown is located. Its bow and stern were stove in.

The Navy Public Relations Office at Newport said it would examine a roster in an effort to determine exactly how many men were aboard.

Manuel L. Machado, 67, a Jamestown farmer, said he was awakened at 3:15 a. m. by the shouts of one of the survivors whom he found at his door, soaked to the skin and weak from exhaustion.

Machado said the sailor told him the boat had capsized after filling with water in the heavy seas, and that he clung to the side of the boat until he felt it strike something.

"The next thing I remember, I found myself lying on shore near the boat," Machado quoted him as saying.

The other known survivor spent the night in a haystack. He was taken to Newport Naval hospital this morning after he was discovered by Norman Caswell, of Jamestown.

Rescue workers expressed the hope that some of the sailors might be drifting in their life belts.

Il Duce Admits Italy Forced Into Conflict

In which the British prime minister gave Italy the choice of quitting or submitting to "prolonged, scientific and shattering air attacks" from the Allies' African "springboard" as well as the British home bases from which the RAF has been flying the trans-Alpine route to shatter Genoa, Turin, Milan and other arsenal and port cities.

To this Mussolini replied: "The Italian people are not inferior to the British and Russian peoples. In our veins flows the blood of the ancient Romans. We shall hold fast."

Then he again cast himself in the role of a Caesar reincarnate fighting English barbarians.

"If you strip an Englishman of his dinner jacket you see the barbarian on whose neck Caesar set his foot thousands of years ago."

Almost in the same heavy breath he said the Italians must learn to hate and must carry through a "sacred cause."

"We must learn to hate because we cannot fight without hating," he said. "This war is not only necessary—it is a sacred cause. We are proud to participate in this battle of giants which will transform the world." He declared the whole world would be "reduced to the status of India" if the Axis lost, that the peace would be "100 times worse than Versailles," in which Italy participated on the winning side last time.

Turning on Mr. Roosevelt again, he said:

"If there is a man who ever diabolically wanted this war it is the President of the United States."

"This warmonger forgot his repeated promises to American mothers not to allow any American blood to be spilled in Europe. It is logical that Japan did not wait for an American attack, but chose the right time for starting it."

The premier said he was not surprised by the North African campaign, which actually compelled the Axis to move into unoccupied France days after it occurred to face the new threat.

Group to Plan For Army Show

Approximately 100 Atlantans, representatives of civic, industrial, labor, religious and social organizations, will attend a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today at the Henry Grady hotel ballroom to map plans for the appearance here of the Army War show. The gigantic exhibition of modern warfare will begin a five-night engagement here beginning December 16.

Scheduled to make the opening address before the group is Lieutenant Richard F. Gretch, Corps of Engineers, who is advance agent for the show, and will speak for the commanding officer of the War Show Task Force, Colonel Tarleton Hale. General chairman for the Atlanta sponsoring committee is Earl Mann, who is away from the city and will be represented at the luncheon by Homer Thompson, a committee member. Mayor Hartsfield is honorary committee chairman.

MRS. MELVIN P. PETTYJOHN.

Miss Lucille Griffin Weds Corporal Melvin Pettyjohn

Of wide interest to friends in Atlanta and Chattanooga, was the marriage of Miss Lucille L. Griffin to Corporal Melvin P. Pettyjohn, of Fort McPherson, which took place on November 19.

The ceremony took place in the presence of a number of friends of the young couple. Chaplain Percy B. Freeman officiated.

A musical program was presented by Corporal Divian R. McGowan and Corporal Paul Gavert, Jewell L. Rainwater, U. S. N. R. A. B. was best man and the ushers were Sergeant Herman E. Montgomery and Sergeant Earl F. Smith.

Mrs. Jewell L. Rainwater, the bride's only attendant, was gowned in a street dress of gold crepe with brown accessories. Her flowers were talisman roses.

The bride entered the chapel with her father, Dennis Griffin, by whom she was given in marriage. Her gown was of hyacinth blue encrusted with rhinestones. She wore a becoming hat fashioned of purple violets and her flowers were orchids and bouvardia.

After the ceremony Mr. Griffin entertained the family and wedding party at dinner, after which the bride couple left for a honeymoon.

They are at home in Atlanta at 938 Juniper street, N. E. Out-of-town guests included the bride's mother, Mrs. W. T. Akers, of Chattanooga; Mrs. J. C. Munn, aunt of the bride, and Jean Gilbert.

Taylor-Tucker Wedding Plans

Miss Mary Frank Taylor and her fiancé, Valien Pierre Tucker, have chosen Monday, December 7, as the date for their marriage. The ceremony will take place at 5 o'clock at the Oakhurst Baptist church, with the Rev. A. B. Couch, pastor of the church, officiating.

A program of music will be presented by Miss June Lanier, organist, and Miss Edith Roberts, soloist.

Miss Virginia Osborn will be Miss Taylor's maid of honor. Miss Jacquelyn Taylor, only sister of the bride-elect, and Miss Mary Beene, will be junior bridesmaids. Miss Marilyn Tucker, sister of the bridegroom-elect, and Miss Mary Rogers, will be bridesmaids.

The groomsmen will be Walter Savage, Ralph Sheppard, Thomas Knowles and Sidney Creech. The ushers are Glen Brannon and William Underwood. James Womack will be best man.

Snow-Johnston

MACON, Ga., Dec. 2.—Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Snow announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Julia Maude Snow, of Forsyth, to P. F. C. James Wiley Johnston, of Nashville, Tenn., and Milner, Ga. The marriage took place on November 15 in Griffin.

New Year's Eve Celebration Planned at Capital City Club

The 59th annual New Year's Eve ball at the Capital City Club will be a brilliant and important event on the December social calendar. The club was founded in 1882 by prominent Atlantans identified with the early history of the city, who foresaw the necessity of this important club in the social and civic life of Atlanta.

Among those having reservations are Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Williams, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Wardlaw Jr., Mr. and Mrs. C. L. R. Nichol, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bridges, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Mangum, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kiser Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lawless, Mr. and Mrs. H. Z. Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Bohn, Mr. and Mrs. William K. Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Moran, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Plummer, E. M. Brown, E. B. Glenn, M. F. Bass, E. G. Ruffin, Dr. Claude Griffin, J. J. Robertson, H. M. Pye, H. G. Ballance, W. D. Singletary, Roy Marsden, J. W. Wesley and J. B. Keough.

When the chimes and whistles signify that the midnight hour has arrived, the old year will be rung out and the new year welcomed with appropriate ceremony. Clyde Williams is president of the Capital City Club, James D. Robinson Jr. is vice president, and William T. Perkerson is secretary and treasurer.

Among the attractive visitors in the city is Miss Elberta Stoudenmire, of Savannah, who arrived yesterday by plane to be the guest of Mrs. Paul Johns at her home on Cumberland road.

A series of informal parties, planned by friends of Mrs. Johns, will mark Miss Stoudenmire's visit. Mrs. Johns will entertain at a bridge-luncheon for her guest tomorrow, and on Saturday evening, she and Mr. Johns will be hosts at dinner at their home in Miss Stoudenmire's honor.

The Ultra Thin Girl No Longer In Style

By Ida Jean Kain.

The ultra-thin girl is not only out of style for the duration—but for good. They don't want her in Washington because she can't stand the strain. They don't want her to teach school, because she hasn't the patience. They don't even want her in Hollywood. She has too much temperament and that holds up production and costs money.

Temperament is just a nice name for nerves. We can't afford nerves today, or nervous breakdowns, and being too thin is a risk. If your weight is below normal for your individual structure, you are too thin. Do you weigh less than 105 pounds for the first five feet of height, plus five pounds for each inch over that? With a medium frame, that would be your normal weight.

With very small bones you can weigh as little as 100 pounds for the first five feet, but with very heavy bones you should go up to 110 pounds for the basic weight. In any case, allow five pounds for each extra inch of height.

The average girl of five feet, four inches should weigh about 125 pounds and if she registers only 110 pounds she is not as fit as she should be. An additional 10 to 15 pounds would mean an exuberance of health she may never have known before. It would make her feel like Paulette Goddard looks—and maybe look a little like her. Part of that beauty is the sparkle of sheer health.

If you are below your weight, put yourself on a program to gain. Food is first. Your three meals—and you must always have three—should be appetizing and easily digested and high in both protection and calories. You have to get the extra calories to gain, but you must have the protective nutrients to utilize the calories and build up your vitality.

During the day get a full quart of milk, at least six slices of whole wheat or enriched bread, generously buttered; a liberal serving of a cooked whole grain cereal with rich milk and cream, a cooked green leafy vegetable, a yellow vegetable, a salad and potatoes. You should also have a serving of meat, fish or fowl, plus an egg and at least two fresh fruits. One of these should either be citrus or tomatoes.

You must build up a habit of eating and the best way to do it is to have your meals regularly. Food must be important to you. Choose your menus carefully, eat regularly and take your time.

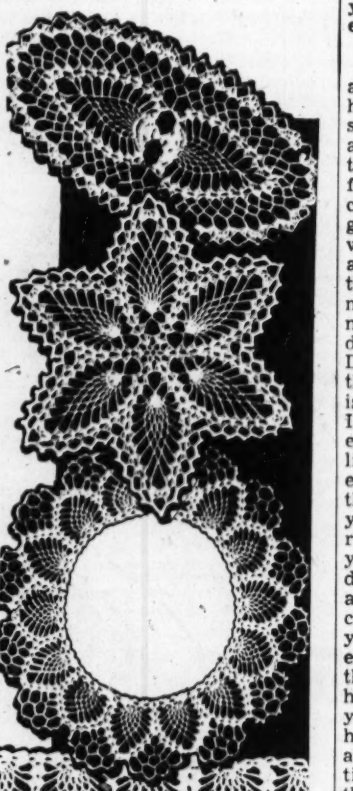

You also need some exercise, plenty of fresh air and from eight to nine hours' sleep.

Even on such a well-rounded program you won't gain right away. You have to condition yourself to add curves. But in just a couple of weeks you will begin feeling like a new woman and you won't need any urging to keep on.

The leaflet, "Weight-Gaining Menus," gives more tips on building vitality and adding curves. Send a large stamped return envelope for it.

Wife Must Let Man Know She Expects the Best of Him

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie: My husband and I have been married for 11 years. We have two children, 10 and 5 years old. My husband was a traveling salesman all last year, and I know that he had one affair after another, but for my children's sake I stayed on where we lived. Now he is working in another state in defense work, and he claims there is no place for all of us to move so I am still left behind. It is just the children and me next door to his mother. I work here and he depends upon me to pay for our supplies and claims that it takes most of his pay for him to live on, and he does not seem to want to send us much money; I don't know what he does with his money. He visits us only once a month for just a part of the night and day at a time and he seems so cool and unconcerned.

I asked him once if someone had come between us, and he said that there was not another nor never would be, but I would like very much for him to start proving it to me. I do not know how to get him to do this. I have gotten to the point that I don't expect him to be very true any more.

I have been true to him all the time, but his people have written him lies about me. I don't know whether that should account for his coolness or not, but I am like everyone, I like a little attention to be paid in return for the attention I pay. Just what would you suggest that I do about everything?

BROKENHEARTED WIFE. You will keep your self respect a great deal more if you just hold him with loose rein and let him step when he wishes, so long as his steps don't lead him into the divorce court. You are perfectly right in thinking of your children, and also showing very good sense in not wanting to live with him while he is running around with other women. I think where you have made your mistake is thinking that he will not be true to you. You say you do not expect him to be true. Don't you know that it is often the case that what people expect is usually what they get in life?

I think he knows that you do not expect him to change his way of living. Let him know that you expect him to be true to you and the children. Let him know that you trust him, even though he is running around. Keep that to yourself. Another thing you must do is to make him support you and the children. Let his pay check part of it for it is due you, and let him know that you expect it. You need not go off the deep end of sentiment about him, because it's not going to do you any good to be dramatic about his actions. You can be cool and independent, but at the same time let him know that you and the children are his responsibility. Stop paying the bills. Stop buying part of the supplies. Tell your husband that he is failing you and the children. Your husband has told you that there is no one else and that there never will be, so you could use this as a cue to your actions. Why not have a week-end trip with him? Why not give him the benefit of the doubt.

GIRL IS WISE TO WAIT. Dear Dixie: I am a girl very much in love. That is, I love him so much I could die for him. I am 18, but if you could meet me you would believe me to be 18. I am considered beautiful and am the glamor-girl of my school. But these things and nothing else matters to me but him. I have dated him for almost a year. I have never been with a nicer or a sweeter person. He loves me, too, and has not only told me so, but has proved it to me many times. We are planning to marry before he is 18, and will be going into the service this month. Would it be wise for me to go on to school and marry him when he comes back, or must I marry him now?

WORRIED. I think if I were you I would wait for him to come back from the Army. Being in love at 16 is wonderful; but don't let it get the best of you, and forget that you are the school's glamor girl. Keeping yourself attractive for him is one of the first and most important rules for the girls back home to consider and follow.

He will want you to be attractive, beautiful and glamorous when he comes back, so send him away with a smile and don't sit around and mope while he's gone. You can still be true to him and love him, but going out and having a nice time with some others.

Bill Powell, the Husband Actor, Now Teams With Joan Crawford

By Louella O Parsons

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(INS)—Well, what do you know? Bill Powell, the best known "husband" on the screen, gets himself still another movie wife when he takes Joan Crawford's hand to co-star in "Remember When" at M-G-M. Bill, who used to be married-in-the-movies exclusively to Myrna Loy, is certainly getting himself some new domestic partners. First he is scheduled to play "Mr." to Irene Dunne's "Mrs." in "The Thin Man Goes Home." Then he and Joan go immediately into this original marital comedy authored by Harry Ruskin, who has written most of the "Gillespie" movies. "Remember When" will mark the first time Joan and Bill have appeared in a movie together, although both have been on the M-G-M lot for years. It's an hilarious comedy about a husband who gets tired of hearing his wife talk about the old days she might have married. In order to silence her he takes her visiting to the homes of the three former sweethearts so she can see just what her life might have been if she had married one of them.

Otto Preminger's jaunt to New York isn't entirely in the nature of a pleasure trip. Twentieth, who has been raiding the New York stage hits, has just bought Helen Hayes' hit of last year, "Candle in the Wind," for Preminger to direct and produce as a reward for the excellent job he did on "Margin for Error." Although no official price is quoted, a pretty penny was plunked down for "Candle in the Wind."

The Maxwell Anderson play is heavy drama about a woman's efforts to outwit the Gestapo in getting her sweetheart out of occupied France. Joan Fontaine is whispered for the Hayes role—but something tells me that Joan will be whispered for every drama coming up at 20th.

MacDonald Carey received his orders to report for officers' training school at Quantico, Va., December 9, which just barely gives him time to finish "Salute for Three" at Paramount. Interesting to hear that Mrs. Carey, who was the former Betty Heckscher, socialite and half sister of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, is taking a job at North American Aircraft in Inglewood for the duration. Carey's sudden call to the Marines means that he will have to be replaced in the role of the psychiatrist in "Lady in the Dark" with Ginger Rogers.

MY DAY: What Constitutes War Work

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday.—Last night I went with Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. Litvinoff to see Katharine Cornell's very remarkable production, "The Three Sisters," by Anton Chekov. It was a little difficult for me to pull myself out of the present into the mood for real appreciation of the characters who performed their parts in a little Russian provincial town in the year 1900. Once the transition was accomplished, however, I was able to appreciate and enjoy this very fine performance.

I have today a long letter which brings up the whole question of what constitutes war work for women. I think we should face this question realistically and acknowledge the fact that the first thing every woman with a family has to do is to meet her family obligations. If her children have reached the age for school or college, and she has gifts which can be employed outside the home, she most certainly should employ them.

There are many women with younger children who must have help in the home in order to do this, and who are thus enabled to work at some occupation for which they are trained, or are capable of undertaking. There are many women who are busy in performing household tasks, and that may be their best war work.

I know of many older women who are today relieving younger women by running their homes for them efficiently and well. These women would do, perhaps, a very inferior job in an office or factory, or even in some voluntary organization, but here, in the work they know and like, they do superlatively good jobs.

This may be so of young women with a special gift and preference for this kind of work and, of course, there are things one can do in a home that bear on the war effort directly. Knitting, sewing and cooking for men in the armed forces can be done at home.

I know a great many people who dislike the thought of applying the word "servant" to people who perform household tasks. I, myself, would far rather look upon this work as a skilled occupation and consider all people thus employed as household operators who help the war effort in a most important way.

The presupposes that we look upon these workers in exactly the same way that we look upon any other—that they have standards of work and that the employers have standards for employment, and that both live up to their contracts, whatever they may be. Basically, the most important thing to face is that, in wartime, more than in peacetime, each one of us should give the best we are capable of giving through the gifts we have. That may mean work in a home, factory, office or volunteer organization, but be sure it is the greatest contribution you are capable of giving to the war effort.

Change in Diet Beats 'Miracle Medicine'

By Dr. William Brady.

For an old "sourpuss" as you call yourself, you've done a lot of good in the world, writes a man from "way up north." I am most enthusiastic and grateful, he pours it on (seriously, though, I like it), being an old native woodsman of the deep forest, rugged and healthy as a bear until—

"Until I got arthritis in my feet, and could no longer build lookout towers to protect our fine forests. There was no evident reason for the arthritis, unless it was some deficiency in nutrition. "Improvement soon experienced, slow but I undeniably felt more and more relief from ache and pain, and more and more able to get about. Now at 65 I have returned to very good health and usefulness. I am indeed grateful."

Who knows whether the regimen the correspondent describes had a thing to do with the recovery from arthritis? I don't know. The point is that the regimen he describes as certainly did him no harm, could do nobody harm, and it is within the bounds of reason that some such reform in living habits may so improve metabolism and nutrition in many instances as to favor recovery from an ill called rheumatism or arthritis.

The woodsman's dietary reform probably contributed much toward his recovery. Those garden vegetables he mentions are all rich in several vitamins and in essential minerals; so is fresh milk, cheese, plain wheat.

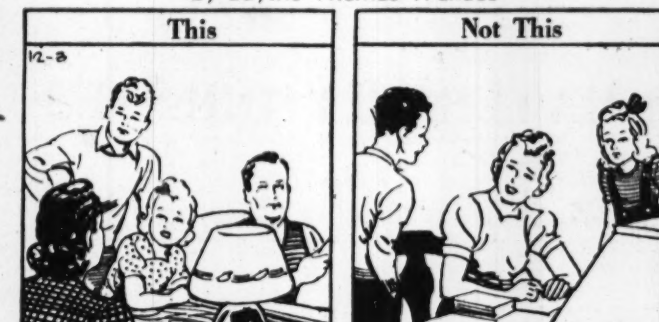

Trouble with most people who are ailing or half-cured and don't know what is the matter, is they are always looking for some miracle medicine—something which will banish their trouble in a dose or two, just like that. When people are so credulous it is difficult or impossible to make them understand that return to such foods as the wise old woodsman mentions is either necessary or safe.

Thank you, old timer, for a valuable lesson.

All in the Game

By JACK TROY

Trautman Triumphs CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 2. George Trautman, president of the American Association, got in the last word with Mrs. Trautman. It has been a tough year for George, with Georgia and Georgia Tech going so good down south.

It's like this. Mrs. Trautman is from Valdosta, Ga., and she is an ardent follower of the football fortunes of both Tech and Georgia. Prexy Trautman is an Ohio State man, through and through.

He was waging a losing fight until the final poll of the writers, which placed Ohio State ahead of Georgia as the No. 1 team of the nation. Trautman pounced on a paper, extracted a clipping of the story and shot it off by air mail to Mrs. Trautman.

"I win," he said, exultantly. Ohio State may be the No. 1 team with a lot of the midwestern boys, but here in Chicago all the football writers talk about is Sinkwich. That is, when they talk about college football. The Chicago Bears, greatest pro team of all time, is their pride and joy.

But they want to know about Sinkwich. They want to know what kind of boy he is, and if he really is as good as the records indicate. John Carmichael insisted on this columnist pointing out a 1,000-word bit on Sinkwich, Wally Butts and the Bulldogs' chances of winning in Pasadena's Rose Bowl. Carmichael is the ace columnist of the Chicago Daily News.

The word from the pro ranks, relative to Sinkwich, is that he will be drafted by the Detroit Lions, who lost 11 straight games during the season. Sinkwich cannot accept, as he will enter the Marines, but the Lions dearly would like to have him on their side.

A Coincidence It is quite an odd coincidence that the picture hanging on the wall in our hotel room at the Morrison is a copy of the famous Blue Boy. The original hangs in the art gallery at the Huntington hotel in Pasadena, most popular spot with southern football teams playing in the Rose Bowl.

And then there was last night's experience with the Coca-Cola Company's Bill Kaliska, who annually is one of the hosts to the minor league baseball people.

Bill, who introduced us to Guy Lombardo at the Roosevelt in New York a couple of years ago, suggested dinner in the Empire Room at the Palmer House, where a brilliant new band is playing. It is Griff Williams' band, and his color scheme is red and black.

Incidentally, Kaliska passed on the telegram of congratulations from Lombardo, an enthusiastic sports fan, sent to Frankie Sinkwich.

It read: "As an Americanized Canadian to an All-American."

The influence of the great football play of Sinkwich with youngsters is most profound. He was featured in a sports magazine published by Street & Smith. The magazine also did a success story of Whitlow Wyatt.

Editor Charlie Moran, who is here for the baseball convention, said he had received hundreds of letters from youngsters on the Sinkwich story.

On football trips the Georgia players entertained themselves by reading aloud bits of it to the extreme discomfort and embarrassment of Sinkwich, who unwittingly had been pictured as a young man working his way through college waiting on tables.

Coast Travel A football team can travel to the coast and back without going in squads of twos and threes, as it has been reported the Georgia Bulldogs might do.

Notre Dame has just returned from playing Southern California in the Coliseum at Los Angeles. Tulane played the opening game of the season against Southern Cal at the same spot. Both made the trip without discomfort and without delay. In each case the whole group traveled together.

The customary procedure on these coast trips is for teams to stop over in spots like San Antonio and El Paso for workouts, thus breaking up the long ride through the Texas plains. But that was in the days of football specials.

A team would have a train for itself. It could stop and go at the school's command. All that is changed now. To stop off for a drill now, a team might have to change trains. Probably the most feasible thing is to go earlier and not stop en route. But to go earlier is important. The long ride has often given the coast rival a touchdown or two of advantage.

As Grimes Sees It "Boiling" Burleigh Grimes has little patience with panicky baseball people who can see only black clouds and no silver linings.

Grimes has been at Toronto, and baseball there has gone through a three-year war period. This summer Canada will have been in the war four years.

Toronto was nosed out for fourth place in the International League, but attendance at the gate was the best in many years. Grimes expects attendance records to be broken this year if he can get the club up in the race.

Last year war clouds were of deepest purple hue, but there is a ray of hope breaking through here and there, and fellows like Grimes, who have devoted a stormy life to the game of baseball, have high hopes for a brilliant future.

Georgia Navy Rated 3d Among Service Teams

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(P)—The Great Lakes Naval Training Station, still known for the mighty football team it turned out during World War One, again is the nation's leading service football power.

In the opinions of 91 sports writers participating in an Associated Press poll, the Great Lakes sailors surpassed even the Navy's four pre-flight schools, which had impressive records against college competition. Despite some poor early-season performances, Great Lakes polled 50 of the 91 first-place votes and amassed a total of 812 points on the usual basis of 10 points for first place, nine for second, etc.

Bernie Bierman's Iowa Pre-Flight Cadets, known as the Seahawks, earned second place with 73 points on the strength of a heavy second-place vote. Only 12 experts picked the Seahawks for the top spot, but 44 listed them second and 24 picked them for third. The Georgia Pre-Flight "Skycrackers" drew 28 first-place votes, but were third in the tabulation with 743 points. The North Carolina and California Pre-Flight schools followed with 591 and 527 points, respectively. Sixth place went to still another Navy outfit, the Jacksonville, Fla., Naval Air Station, with 386 points. Although the tours of the eastern and western Army all-star teams at the start of the season showed that the Army has a wealth of football power in its ranks, the top-ranking Army team which played through the season as a unit was Camp Grant, Ill., polling 151 points.

Texas Steers Show Way in Defense Total

Bulldogs Average 429 Yards and Erase Colorado's Modern Mark.

By DAVE HOFF.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(P)—Coach it that way, but Texas last year D. X. Bible may not have planned a football powerhouse with a scoring record of 338 points, emerged today as 1942's best defensive aggregation.

While Georgia, the southeastern whirlwind, sped easily to a new record in winning the total offense championship this year, Texas changed tactics to dominate the defensive field, holding 10 opponents to a gain of 117.3 yards, on the ground and in the air.

The American Football Statistical Bureau, which kept rankings of more than 130 major grid teams this season, listed these department champions for 1942:

TOTAL OFFENSE (Rushing and Passing)—Georgia, averaging 429.5 yards for a new modern record, erasing the 1937 Colorado mark of 375.4 yards a game.

TOTAL DEFENSE (Stopping Opponents' Rushing and Passing)—Texas, yielding 117.3 yards a game but failing to approach Santa Clara's 1937 low of 69.9 yards.

RUSHING OFFENSE—Hardin-Simmons, averaging 307.4 yards but failing to beat Colorado's 1937 figure of 310 yards.

RUSHING DEFENSE—Boston College, yielding 48.9 yards a game but missing Santa Clara's 1937 mark of 25.3 yards by a wide margin.

PASSING OFFENSE—Tulsa, averaging 233.9 yards for a new modern record, surpassing Cornell's 186.3-yard average made in 1940.

PASSING DEFENSE—Because Texas Mines has one game unreported and several other leaders still have contests to play—no season's leader yet can be determined. At the moment Harvard is tied with Texas Mines, each having permitted its foes to average 45.4 yards which, is far off the modern record of 13.1 yards to which Penn State held its opponents in 1937.

Tulsa was the year's only double champion, annexing punting honors with an average of 41.3 yards for 56 kicks. North Carolina State was labeled the "punting-est" team on the basis of its 103 kicks, which average 40.55 yards, good enough for third place. North Carolina was second with a 40.59 average for its 80 punts.

Georgia was not the only team to smash the former total offense high. Tulsa averaged 426.1 yards. Boston College 410.8, and Ohio State 397.5, an unparalleled happening. This four-team surge, the statistical bureau said, the season did not record an undo increase in football offenses.

Georgia's balance was shown by the fact it failed to lead in either rushing or passing, but its combined total put it well at the top. Texas' total defense figure was not an outstanding one, for the leader in this department usually holds its foes to an average of well under 100 yards.

Team passing provided more unusual figures than any other statistical grouping. In addition to setting a new offensive record with its aerials, Tulsa also set a modern mark for total completions, hitting 138 out of 245 attempts. Arkansas previously was the record-holder because of its 136 completions in 1937.

Tulsa's pass-completion of .563 also was a new high for teams attempting 200 or more aerials. Only other 200-pass team ever to top the 500 mark was Texas Christian, which in Dave O'Brien's day—1938—hit 108 out of 204 throws for a .537 percentage.

Purples Off To Meet Highly Favored Miami

Boys' High and 30 Points Is Offered in Florida; Game Scheduled Saturday Afternoon.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

Pity the plight of that Boys' High football team as it journeys to Miami today only to be annihilated by those vicious Miami High Stingers Saturday afternoon. That is the way they have it figured out in the south Florida city where the smart boys who gamble for a living will give you the Purple Hurricane and 30 points and still retain a smug confidence they will pocket your greenbacks after the game.

Vols Compile Nation's Best 5-Year Record

Boston College Second, With Georgia, Tech Far Down List.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(P)—In addition to providing some of the most astounding upsets in years, the rapidly-fading college football season's topsy-turvy life resulted in major changes in the standings of leading teams based on their records over a five-year span.

Today the Vols of Tennessee, thanks to a fine season of eight victories, one tie and one defeat, were at the head of the list with a remarkable five-year record of 47 wins, five defeats and one tie for an average of .904. This record, which is an indifferent one, incidentally explains the fact the Vols will be competing in their fourth bowl game in five years when they meet Tulsa January 1 in the Sugar Bowl.

Tennessee leaped to the top over the battered form of Duke. The Blue Devils, with an indifferent season, dropped to fifth place, with Boston College, Notre Dame and Utah ahead of them, in addition to the Vols. B. C.'s average is .854, Notre Dame's .837, Utah's .821 and Duke's .809.

Never sell a Shanty Doyal eleven short, especially one as strong as this one is capable of being, but should they toss the Stingers back in Biscayne Bay it will be a distinct upset. That's how good the Peninsula boys are. The Atlanta aggregation is looked upon by the cocky Stingers as easy pickings because the latter unmercifully walloped Savannah High, 58 to 0, and Savannah was awarded the G. I. A. title over Shorty Doyal's once beaten gang.

The Miami boys boast a senior eleven and will be able to start practically the same team which tied Clint Castlesberry and Company last year. Bruce Smith—no kin to the Minnesota All-American of the same name and Arnold Tucker, who has tallied 98 points this year, are the big guns in the Miami backfield, and no one has to tell the Purples who made their trip last year that they can carry the mail.

Coach Lyles Alley's "Stingers" will have added incentive to pour it on since this is the rubber game in the series, each team having won four games in one ending in a tie over a ten year span. The Purples, having been the only team to question their supremacy in the south for many years, and the Miami's naturally harbor no love for one another.

CITY BASKETBALL

The fast Walhoun Cider basketball League will launch its 1942-43 season tonight at Warren Sports Arena with the last Dental College Greens meeting the defending champion Central Cafe boys against Porterdale at 8:30 o'clock.

The line-up for the game will place the defending champion Central Cafe boys against Porterdale at 8:30 o'clock.

These six clubs are expected to be about a par and should furnish plenty of exciting basketball before the season is over. The Dental College, coached by Dr. Surdavan, has its usual strong team, and will rate a slight pre-season favorite.

Johnny Moon has replaced several of 1942 championship crew, but displayed anything but a weak outfit in downing Lawson's General Hospital last Sunday.

Jimmy Heaton, former Georgia Tech star, will make the Central's much stronger team last year's City title holders, Atlanta, will take the top guard in local circles.

Lefty Thompson, former Alabama player, has rounded up several former Crimson players for his Sewell Clothing team, and is expected to go places in this fast loop.

TONIGHT'S SCHEDULE

Dental College vs. Sewell Clothing at 7:30 o'clock.

Central Cafe vs. Porterdale at 8:30 o'clock.

R. C. Cola vs. Georgia Evening College at 9:30 o'clock.

SLIGHTLY AFTER MR. GRAY

The curfew tolls the knell of waning play,
The lowing herd has left deserted stands,
The blocking back no longer stands at bay,
We hear no more the cheering and the bands.
The boast of stardom and the pomp of power,
And all the bowl games with their flaming flares,
Await alike the inevitable hour,
The paths of glory lead but to the Bears.

The Worst Predictor

Whatever else has happened or might still happen, football's worst prophet or predictor has at last been uncovered. He is the one who said, before the season opened, that on account of the war there would be no sectional arguments this season and no claim for any national title.

On the contrary, we have seldom heard a louder tumult, most of it in the way of protest.

Most of this comes from the Midwest and the south—the two strongest football sectors. Here are some of the charges brought against this department:

1. For not putting Ohio State far in front of the field, with no one else close.
2. For not putting Georgia on top of the pack, with something to spare.
3. For not ranking Wisconsin on top for beating Ohio State decisively.
4. For overplaying Tulsa, with the old run-around—"What did Tulsa beat?"
5. For not giving the Far West a fair break, with the old "Wait for the Rose Bowl against your Georgia team!"
6. For overplaying Boston College, "that kept beating nobody" until it met Holy Cross.
7. For overlooking Auburn and Holy Cross.

Choice Selection

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has never made happier selection of citizens for award of certificates for outstanding public service than the three who will be so honored at the annual dinner on December 7.

Coach William A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech, has been an outstanding factor in the building of character among the youth at Tech for many years. He reached one more pinnacle in a career dotted with achievement when he led the highly successful Tech football team of 1942.

William E. Mitchell, vice president of the Georgia Power Company, was the director of the United War Fund campaign of last July, which was such a gratifying success. Further he has been active in work for the Fulton County Relief Board, the Salvation Army and the Boy Scouts.

Charles A. Stair, the third of the distinguished trio, is vice president of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company. For the first time in 25 years the annual Community Fund drive surpassed its quota and this success was largely due to the work of Mr. Stair as director of the drive.

Not only during the twelve months just passed, but for many years each of the three have contributed unselfishly and largely to the advance of Atlanta and the betterment of opportunity and life for their fellow citizens of all classes. That their services to the community should be publicly recognized and suitably acknowledged is but right and proper. For it brings to the foreground of attention the fact that men who serve personify the spirit that is America and, likewise, that their home community is not slow to honor those who by unselfish service give most to further that American way of life.

A British New Deal

The Beveridge report, long awaited and the focus of much advance speculation, was made public this week in Britain. It is revealed as the most sweeping plan for government-sponsored social security ever offered to a modern nation.

In many respects the Beveridge plan goes much further than our own "New Deal." In providing actuarial guarantees, for practically the entire population, against want it is an idealistic, yet probably practical, framework for what is, really, a new social order.

It is unlikely the plan, or any considerable part of it, will be accepted by the present parliament. Yet there is extreme probability, practical certainty, it will be put into practice at some future date.

Of course it would be extremely difficult to operate in time of war. The question of cost alone makes it impractical for any country devoting as high a percentage of national income as possible to the costs of war. The Beveridge plan would cost, it is estimated, 10 or 11 per cent of the national income.

It is, despite all opposition which is already forming in the ranks of British Conservatives, a blueprint for the creation of a society which shall realize at least one of those new rights of man specified in the Atlantic Charter, the right to live without fear of hunger or destitution.

Someday the world will look back upon this blueprint for social security and will wonder why anyone hesitated before putting it into practice. But not the least wonder will be at the everlasting stamina of the British people, probably the only nation in the world which would even form such a plan while engaged in a war for survival.

The People Know

It is gratifying to learn that, despite recent congressional flounders in favor of a return to national prohibition, the people as a whole still remember the tragedy of the unregretted prohibition years and do not want any return of that experiment which, while possibly noble in conception, was so horrifyingly ignoble in result.

A recent Gallup poll shows that today 64 per cent of the people, the nation over, would vote against national prohibition if the question was again put up to them. Only 36 per cent would vote for the paternalistic dry law.

Sentiment on the prohibition question has shown no change since this country became a belligerent in the war. In February last the percentage among the voters, as shown by a Gallup poll then taken, was the same as that of today. A poll in September showed a slight shift, when 62 per cent were against prohibition and 38 per cent for it. However, the percentages have changed back to 64 and 36 since.

With but one exception, every conceivable classification of the voters shows substantial majority against prohibition. Women show stronger prohibition sentiment than men. Women voted 57 to 43 against the dry law, while men voted 71 to 29. By age groups, the older voters are drier, those 50 years or older being 54 to 46, while the 21-29 age group is 71 to 29.

By occupations, the farmers are most nearly divided, 51 per cent being in the wet column and 49 per cent in the dry. Generally speaking, the larger the city the greater the preponderance of anti-prohibition sentiment.

It is only when the classification is made by sections that, in one group only, there is a majority on the dry side. That is in the south, where the vote went dry by 59 to 41. In all other sections, however, the majority are anti-prohibitionists.

It must not be thought that this means, in any sense, that the nation is intemperate in habit or beliefs. A large proportion of those who vote against prohibition, nevertheless are strongly in favor of regulation and education to increase the sobriety of the nation. The per capita consumption of liquor has, in recent years, shown gratifying decrease in this country and government statistics reveal far fewer cases of alcoholism than 20 years ago.

The advance of temperance is a condition which should bring rejoicing among all with the well-being of the nation at heart. At the same time, the assurance that the nation is in no mood to repeat the tragic mistake of the years of national prohibition is equally gratifying.

The only way to improve habit is by precept and by education. Prohibitory laws only encourage lawlessness and create conditions far worse than the evil they were designed to remedy.

Six Grand Georgians

Not all the heroes or heroines of Georgia are to be found among the sports participants, the politicians, the educators, the fighting men. This week six young Georgians have won fame for their state and distinction for themselves in fields of at least equal importance to any.

The six are young ladies, ranging in age from 15 to 19. They won national and sectional honors at the national 4-H Congress in Chicago so sweepingly that the name of Georgia overshadowed that of all other states.

Eva Mae Jones, clothing achievement; Eula Wood, leadership; Dorothy Edmonds, gardening; Okie Hendrix, home beautification; Sallie Cook, general excellence, and Sara Alderman, canning, are the six and the fields in which each won distinction.

It has been said, time and time again, that it is just such young people as these who hold the great promise for the future of the state. A state is measured, after all, by the quality of life of its people, its advancement rests upon the development of the simpler fundamentals of life. This lesson the girls of the 4-H clubs have learned. In whatever field of humbly, simple art they excel, they make real and important contribution to that better way of life all Georgians shall know in the future. For such as these shall lead us all to the finer values of day by day living.

Georgia Editors Say:

KEEP HAMMERING, MR. GREW!

(From The Albany Herald.)

Because we believe he is unquestionably right, the Herald has made repeated comments on the warnings of Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Tokyo, that the Jap is the toughest foe that we have to fight. We refer to the subject again at this time, because our great offensive in North Africa has overshadowed the operations of our armed forces who are in contact with the Japanese.

We must not let our optimism over our successes against Hitler dim our realization of the bloody job we still have before us in driving the Japs out of the vast expanse of territory they have conquered and bringing them to their knees in defeat.

And if we continue to listen to Mr. Grew, we will not forget, as he so forcefully puts it, that "the new Japan born in the conquests of 1942 is a new, terrible power, not known before in the world" and that "to let this slave empire become entrenched" is to invite defeat, because the new Japan "is potentially our military superior."

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

ANOTHER WAR RUMOR WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The latest war rumor gaining currency in the restricted circles of Washington is more interesting from the standpoint of its plausibility than any supporting factual background. Little official comment is available, but the few informed sources who will discuss the matter sound a note of warning in the beginning that the story has all the earmarks of a Fifth Columnist plant. It may have been put out to lull us into a state of apathy. Hence it is not to be taken too seriously.

Nevertheless, it is sufficiently interesting to warrant repetition. Here it is: British governmental heads are reported to have been approached by leaders of the German military machine with feelers as to how far London will be willing to go in guaranteeing a respectable peace if the top-ranking Nazi officials are purged.

Although somewhat related, the present rumor is not to be confused with published stories coming out of Stockholm last week that a German military junta was preparing to throw the Nazis overboard preparatory to making peace overtures. According to the current version, the militarists, who long have been distrustful of Hitler's party henchmen, have indicated a willingness to liquidate several thousand of the higher-ranking Nazis as the price for a lenient peace.

PURGE FOR HITLER? The suggested purge list would start with Hitler and take in practically the entire superstructure of the Nazi organization.

It would seem to meet the conditions laid down by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt that no peace negotiations shall be considered with Germany until the Nazis are wiped out of control.

To the rumors are attributed reports that several large bets have been made in New York and London recently that the war in Europe will be over by next February. Also, it is interesting to note that the stock exchange lately has shown a marked falling off in war industry issues.

But at the moment there is little more to support the rumor than its plausibility. It does have a ring of feasibility about it that puts it well within the realm of possibility.

FAILURE AGAINST SOVIET War developments of the past few months have undoubtedly convinced the more practical realists of the German military establishment that only a miracle can now save Hitler. His determination to take the war, as his time table called for. This year was his last chance to knock out the Red army. In that, too, he miserably failed. Henceforth, the Russians, aided by an increasing flow of Allied supplies, will be a more powerful force than ever.

The turn of events in North Africa has also been a body blow to the Axis. Rommel's crack force, the cream of the German army, has been annihilated. General Montgomery's striking victory and the American occupation of Algiers and Morocco have exposed the soft underside of Europe to invasion. Italy is ready to fall out of the war, and it is only a matter of time now before we come to grips with the Nazis on the continent. Defeatist talk has been heard in Berlin for the first time since the war started.

HITLER VS. GENERALS There has never been any love lost between the Nazi party and the German military machine. Hitler has continually played one against the other. Moreover, he has antagonized the generals on a number of occasions by overruling their carefully drawn plans and taking matters in his own hands.

The most recent example was his insistence on the capture of Stalingrad. Most of his military leaders are said to have urged that it be by-passed. Personal vanity, perhaps, guided Hitler in his determination to "take the Volga city at all costs. He probably wanted it chiefly because it bore Stalin's name. Likewise he is reported to have overruled his generals in the battle of France. The original plan is supposed to have called for by-passing France, after Holland and Belgium had been overrun, with an invasion attempt launched on England instead. When the break-through came at Sedan so easily, Hitler is said to have hastily revised his strategy with a decision to press for a knock-out of France.

LOST HIS CHANCE Had the original plan conceived by the out, Britain might have been eliminated from the war early. It would have caught the main British army in France, with little equipment left for home defense, as we now know. By dallying with the French he lost his great chance. Before being able to reorganize his forces for the channel thrust, the British were prepared.

STORED HATRED What is reported to be a matter of greater concern to the German generals, however, is the fate of the German nation if the Axis loses the war. The atrocities that have been committed throughout the invaded countries of Europe have stored up a reservoir of such bitter hatred against the Germans that, once it is unleashed, it would threaten the extermination of the race.

The British now would be able to save the German nation from that sort of fate. A year from now might be too late. There is no assurance that the Russians could be stopped if they reached the German frontier. The German generals know all of this.

Blessings

Of Rationing.

This mileage rationing for automobiles is not altogether a bad thing, even aside from the war necessity. For instance, the monthly gasoline bill which was waiting at home on Monday last, for November, called for a check in an amount of $3.98. And it used to run $20 or $25 a month.

Saving enough for a $25 war bond there, alone.

Of course, you've got to offset it by a dime or two on the street car fare. Which comes to approximately $2.40 a month. But then parking charges uptown were $6 a month, so there's another saving at that.

And riding to town by street car is not unpleasant. There is usually some character among fellow passengers interesting to observe and full of possibilities for speculation.

Of course, some days, now that the weather has been a little cooler, you will find a street car with all windows shut lacking ventilation and isn't so pleasant to breathe the atmosphere, when it has been crowded for a trip or two.

And I do find it is necessary to be careful how you gaze out the window. The old eyes tire easily and begin to smart under any undue strain. I find the habit of looking out a street car window is harder on the eyes than watching the road and traffic when driving your own car.

Wonder If Penny Would Do.

The other morning, stepping on the car in Decatur, I held a dime between thumb and finger. You know fare from Decatur is just a nickel. It was my purpose to give the conductor the dime to be changed to two nickels, to drop one in the slot of his fare box and keep the other. But, absent-mindedly, I dropped the dime in the slot. Suggested to conductor he give me a nickel in change any way, but he said he couldn't do that, that once the fare was in the box he could do nothing about it. So my ride to town cost a dime instead of a nickel that morning.

noticed, however, the ring of the bell in the fare box was the same for the dime as it is for a nickel. One of these mornings I think I'll try a penny. It ought to give the same ring and so the conductor won't know the difference.

And that way I'll get four of my excess pennies back again. I hope they don't call a cop and put me in jail, however, if they catch me.

On second thought, perhaps I'd better call on a lawyer friend and find what the penalty for such a dire misdemeanor would be, if caught.

Prosperous Looking Gents.

Nowadays, with mileage gasoline, you see a lot of prosperous looking tycoons riding the street cars. They are of two classes. One class I like and the other I don't.

The first sit quietly, or hang unobtrusively to a strap, minding their own business.

The second find someone to join with in conversation and, all the way to town, talk ponderously in loud voices, in manner which seems arranged for the principal purpose of impressing the common herd with their vast importance.

One Condition That Puzzles.

One condition puzzles me—You remember, some weeks ago, they eliminated some of the car stops in order, the advertisements explained, to speed up service, to make the available cars do extra duty in hauling folks to and from town, by letting them make the trips in fewer minutes. And thus make more trips.

Well and good. It sounded reasonable and desirable. We were all for it.

But, ever since, on the North Decatur route anyway, the cars I use to come to town seem to have more time than they know what to do with. The motorman has time for a drink and a sandwich in the little eating place at the end of the line. I don't begrudge it to him. I'd wait myself, probably, if his job was mine.

It is when he starts to town the excess time becomes irritating. Honestly, three mornings out of four, after he passes Moreland avenue he has to drag along barely moving in order to let his schedule catch up. We creep like a snail along DeKalb avenue and Edgewood until, at last, the heavier traffic toward the business part of the city forces a little faster movement.

Such sleepy crawling is not condoned by the committee of the whole in the house of representatives.

Movie Of Unionism? marvelous picture industry has portrayed most phases of our life and politics, exaggerated some of our faults, but it is beginning to seem odd that it has never done a show dealing with the greatest domestic problem of the time, namely, the growth of our subgovernment under the New Deal party. We have interesting and historic material here and the total avoidance of the subject suggests that the art of Hollywood is politically sensitive and, not to use a harsh word where a milder one will do, a bit of a trollop. Of course, we know that, as an industry, the moving picture business is a rogue, for some of its leading personalities were forced to admit as much in the trials of Browne and Bioff. And some of its magnates, who though they were plainly depicted as racists in the testimony, not only are still out of jail but, on the contrary, are posturing as patriots in the field of national morale. The industry has been, in fact, an accomplice in the very developments with which it would like to deal objectively, but that need not be a total obstacle because, after all, there are a number of first-class writers, actors and directors who could easily be induced to do the job.

The national government, itself, could not be expected to turn out public expense, portraying the persecution of the helpless individual worker and the harassment of the employer by the professional unionizer in league with the Labor Relations Board, for that would be bad politics and all our government propaganda has for its first purpose the glorification of the policies and practices of the party in power. We might hope for a government documentary showing a rich man taking a fat profit on an order for guns but omitting the scene where he kicks practically all of it back in tax, but a true portrayal of the tyranny of John L. Lewis over the rank and file miner, or the unconscionable graft of the carpenters' union at the expense of the workers and the public treasury in the war construction jobs, would be inappropriate.

The sort of film that I have in mind would be one of those super in the order of "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," which portrayed the United States as a gang of scoundrels and cowards, and certainly would touch upon the subject of Communism among writers and directors in Hollywood and sprawl out over the whole field of graft, brutality, rioting, intimidation, the movement to goons across state lines to blockade legitimate industries, boycotts, waste and the collusion between the boss unionizers and the national government of a country which, in spite of all this, has the gall to contemplate a draft of labor into the closed shop or its variations.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Our moving picture industry has portrayed most phases of our life and politics, exaggerated some of our faults, but it is beginning to seem odd that it has never done a show dealing with the greatest domestic problem of the time, namely, the growth of our subgovernment under the New Deal party. We have interesting and historic material here and the total avoidance of the subject suggests that the art of Hollywood is politically sensitive and, not to use a harsh word where a milder one will do, a bit of a trollop. Of course, we know that, as an industry, the moving picture business is a rogue, for some of its leading personalities were forced to admit as much in the trials of Browne and Bioff. And some of its magnates, who though they were plainly depicted as racists in the testimony, not only are still out of jail but, on the contrary, are posturing as patriots in the field of national morale. The industry has been, in fact, an accomplice in the very developments with which it would like to deal objectively, but that need not be a total obstacle because, after all, there are a number of first-class writers, actors and directors who could easily be induced to do the job.

The national government, itself, could not be expected to turn out public expense, portraying the persecution of the helpless individual worker and the harassment of the employer by the professional unionizer in league with the Labor Relations Board, for that would be bad politics and all our government propaganda has for its first purpose the glorification of the policies and practices of the party in power. We might hope for a government documentary showing a rich man taking a fat profit on an order for guns but omitting the scene where he kicks practically all of it back in tax, but a true portrayal of the tyranny of John L. Lewis over the rank and file miner, or the unconscionable graft of the carpenters' union at the expense of the workers and the public treasury in the war construction jobs, would be inappropriate.

The sort of film that I have in mind would be one of those super in the order of "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," which portrayed the United States as a gang of scoundrels and cowards, and certainly would touch upon the subject of Communism among writers and directors in Hollywood and sprawl out over the whole field of graft, brutality, rioting, intimidation, the movement to goons across state lines to blockade legitimate industries, boycotts, waste and the collusion between the boss unionizers and the national government of a country which, in spite of all this, has the gall to contemplate a draft of labor into the closed shop or its variations.

How To Start My scenario would start with a common American, one of the little people as they are condescendingly called, and would show him harassed at his work, spied upon and tormented in his home, on the street and by phone, lied about, beaten and thrown out of his job because he wouldn't put himself in the hands of some remorseless Muscovite from out of town or pay $100 and a heavy income tax to a crook of the type of Mike Boyle. It would show a young shyster from the Labor Board tormenting the employer because he had the American gumption to tell the people in the plant that the unionizer was a Communist or a grafter and, by this exercise of his constitutional right, had put himself afoul of the Wagner act. It would demonstrate that this act is a fraud on the American people in that it violates its own piously stated purpose by compelling our little man to accept a bargaining agent whom he did not want and certainly would show a few of the gaudier and more tearful money at the national convention of the American Federation of Labor. And it would not fail to emphasize the blood relationship between all this and the party of humanity as the gorillas called the New Deal at the third nomination in Chicago.

Important History Now this is important American history which has been developing in our midst all these last 10 years and yet, such is the state of our art that not a single frame of the scene has ever been put on movie film, nor a fiction book nor a play produced about it. I did hear one play on the subject, but whether because it wasn't a good play or for ulterior reasons, it never was put on the stage. It is not inconceivable that if a good play were written the unions would refuse to man the cast or the house and that a similar censorship would prevent such a movie, but as to the movie, that would be a secondary boycott. The first verboten is the movie industry which is playing along obediently and agreeably with those who, like Henry Wallace, believe that the rights guaranteed by the Bill of Rights can be practiced to excess.

ur schedules, at any rate between 9 and 10 o'clock in the mornings, need revising for greater speed. Or they had better restore the old stops just to take up the time that, now, the poor motorman are so hard put to it to kill.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

"DOO-CHAY! DOO-CHAY!" Some of the brass was gone from his voice—and from his manner.

He was breathing hard, so the reports say, and those listening could hear the breath pant out of his throat.

He admitted that Germany gave him orders when to attack.

He said that even if he were a hyena, that Churchill and Roosevelt were worse hyenas.

He admitted that he and his nation did the jackal trick of waiting until France was defeated and England ready for the knockout blow, so they believed, before they attacked.

"Let us admit," he said, "that we stabbed France in the back, but," he added petulantly, "France has made many stabs on Italy in history."

"Only one woman in Genoa cried 'Peace,'" he said, when the puppet King and Queen visited that city. And she, he added scornfully, "was one of the wealthy bourgeoisie."

He declared Germany would aid them heavily.

They were not to fear, he said, because Japan and Germany were invincible.

Il Duce was not at all the Duce who bristled and thrust out his chin after conquering the Ethiopians, to say: "Italy at last has her empire."

The Italian people have created with their blood an empire. They will render it fertile and fruitful with their work. They will defend it against anyone with their weapons."

The empire is gone now. Only German might has kept the Allies out of Africa this long. They are there now.

And Benito must cough and pant and say that Italy will be safe because of the might of Japan and Germany. No longer does he rattle the Italians with the pompous egotism, playing international politics shrewdly and with cold calculation.

It was a revealing speech. Italy has confessed that only Germany and Japan keep her in the war.

Il Doo-chay has pulled in his chin.

"TUNISIAN GIBRALTAR" A new book, by Reynolds and Eleanor Packard (Balcony Empire) includes some comment pertinent to the drive of the Allied troops to the Tunisian coast.

In 1938 the two correspondents visited Tunisia and the French took them to the "Tunisian Maginot Line."

"The line was located between the Libyan frontier and Medenine and consisted mostly of elaborate underground works where whole battalions could hide. There were tank traps and miles of barbed wire, intended specifically to halt cavalry and camel corps which Mussolini had stationed just on the other side of the border. Every oasis was a fortress in itself, complete with machinegun nests, concrete redoubts, subterranean air

Dudley Glass

Few things are more difficult than getting back into the old routine after a week's vacation. At this writing I earnestly desire that one of my wealthy uncles would pass away suddenly and leave me a large fortune, so I could retire.

I often dream about it—a nice little house with a large porch, a few acres of land, a few horses, a few dogs, a few cats, a few birds, a few fish, a few flowers, a few trees, a few mountains, a few oceans, a few planets, a few stars, a few galaxies, a few universes, a few everything.

One reason I am so weary, perhaps, is that a day or two ago I rode nearly 300 miles in the back seat with my dog Ding, who insists on trying to climb out of a window or jump into the front seat and help drive. Down to south Georgia and back was his first vacation journey. Next time I'll take a kitten. I can cope with a kitten, I think.

It's mighty pretty down that way these days.

It has been a mild winter and Quitman, the Camelia City, is full of blooms, some weeks too early for them to have attained blue ribbon beauty. There has also been a fine crop of quail and turkey and even the famous Brooks county hams can be found, after arduous search. The farmers aren't curing so many hams in recent years. They find it more profitable—and certainly easier—to sell their hogs to the packing house at Moultrie. But if you do succeed in finding a Brooks county home-cured ham you've got something to be rationed among your guests. And only especially favored guests, at that.

Leisurely Jaunt

I saw more of the scenery on this Thanksgiving week journey than on any previous jaunt. Because the Mistress of the Manor, who played chauffeur, held strictly to 35 m. p. h.—except when she grew absent-minded and discovered the speedometer showed 40. We seemed to be loafing, but the trip which took six hours at 60 required only eight hours at the new rate. I think, too, that we used less gas, but we didn't check it accurately.

Couple of Thanksgivings down there have been spent with the Stricklands, farmers a few miles out of Quitman, and both times there was cane grinding and syrup boiling and an enormous dinner out of doors, served to 40 or more neighbors and friends. But this time we were guests of the Williamses—parents of Beth Williams Powers, columnist of the Quitman Free Press and known and quoted throughout the state. That was where I learned of the profusion of quail and turkey and ham and virtually everything that would fill up a Marine sergeant and an Army sergeant. A sample of each were present and active. And too lethargic after dinner to engage in battle—even orally.

Those 22 Rifles

In his esteemed Banks County Journal Uncle Jack Hilton has this to say:

"When a man places a 22 rifle in the hands of his boy he endangers the boy's life, lives of other members of his family and the lives of all boys living in his neighborhood. We read some time ago where a man bought his boy a 22 rifle one afternoon and the next afternoon the boy let it go off and placed a bullet in dear father's heart. A very appropriate place, we thought."

I agree with Editor Hilton—in this day of high-powered 22-caliber rifles and ammunition. I acquired a 22 rifle at the age of 10, but our cartridges in those days were "BB's," and many a boy extracted a bullet from his hipster without calling a doctor or suffering serious harm. A "BB" could destroy an eye, but a wound anywhere below the neck was nothing to bother about.

It's different now. The 22-caliber cartridges I purchased a few years ago for destroying jaybirds were labeled "dangerous at one mile." They looked it, too. One I shot at a jay—and missed, of course—went through both walls of an ancient garage, old oak lumber so tough brand-new axe would hardly penetrate it. Where it wound up I don't know. I didn't find any story in next day's papers about anybody's having been mysteriously shot.

Reverting to dogs, which I usually do, the dachshund is a type apparently unfamiliar to the man on the street in South Georgia.

At filling stations, soft drink resorts and on a stroll through Quitman I led—or followed—my dog Ding on a leash. And he seemed more excited and curious than a lion cub would have done.

Folk unacquainted with this friendly and lovable breed think he looks funny, with his long body and short legs. And they make remarks which would hurt Ding's feelings except that he's used to all the gags—such as "two dogs long and a half-a-dog high." He ignores them.

He doesn't look funny to me. I'm so used to him and his mother and brothers, former companions at our house, that long-legged dogs seem odd.

Georgia Ensign Cocoanut Grove Fire Victim

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The name of Ensign Henry G. Heath, of Statesville, Ga., was included in the list of additional dead in the Cocoanut Grove night club fire released Tuesday by authorities.

It has been previously announced that Captain and Mrs. Walter C. Goodpasture, Jr., of Atlanta, were also victims of the fire, which claimed nearly 500 lives.

F.D.R. Honors Pilot Killed During Raid

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today conferred the Congressional Medal of Honor upon Captain Earl Pease Jr., bomber pilot believed killed in a raid on the Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain, August 6.

The President personally presented the medal to Captain Pease's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pease Sr., of Plymouth, N. H. Young Pease, the President said, displayed "high devotion to duty, valor and contempt for personal danger."

On August 7 Captain Pease and a volunteer crew joined their squadron at Port Moresby, New Guinea, and, with only three hours' rest, took off for Rabaul. A flight of 30 Jap planes intercepted the American bombers, and Captain Pease held his plane on the wing of the American squadron to bear the brunt of the attack, destroying several Zeros, dropping bombs on the Japanese base, and fighting more enemy attacks for 25 minutes.

All Sites Now Selected For New Rubber Plants WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—All sites have been chosen and the necessary money allocated for plants to produce 800,000 tons of synthetic rubber annually, Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, said today.

Thomas, a member of the senate subcommittee which studied the rubber situation early this year, said he had been advised by federal authorities that these preliminary steps had been taken and the entire program was about to get under way.

He added that he did not know where the plants were to be located nor in what volume.

Churchill's Daughter Ends Cadet Training

PASSING THE AMMUNITION—Chaplain John O. Lindquist, chief of the chaplain branch at headquarters, Fourth Service Command (left), helps Master Sergeant Jesse H. Smith, of Atlanta, who is in charge of the ordnance warehouse, with storing a quarter of a million copies of the Scriptures which will be distributed to soldiers in the southeast. The chaplain says the government feels that spiritual ammunition must go into battle just as powder and bullets.

Soldiers Will Get New Weapon! Now It's Spiritual Ammunition

Chaplain John O. Lindquist, chief of the chaplain branch at headquarters, Fourth Service Command, is now ready to pass the ammunition.

But this time it's spiritual ammunition—a quarter of a million copies of the scriptures—to be distributed to soldiers in the southeast.

For the first time in history, the government has undertaken such a project. Bibles for more than a century having been distributed to members of the armed forces through churches, individuals, Gideons, the American Bible Society and other such agencies.

The new scriptures, prepared for the three major faiths, Protestant, Catholic and Jewish, are uniformly bound in khaki, bearing the seal of the War Department and the legend: "Presented by the Army of the United States" on the front cover.

On the flyleaf is a message from the President, commending the use of the scriptures.

The volumes are pocket size, to accompany the soldier into the battlefield. They will be presented to each officer and enlisted man upon request, the chief of chaplains said.

In making a token presentation to members of each of the three faiths, Chaplain Lindquist declared that the government is distributing the copies of the scriptures in this manner to illustrate its attitude toward the work of the chaplains and the importance of going into battle with more than just physical strength and military power.

IMPRESSIVE TESTIMONIES.

General Smuts' recent address before the two houses of parliament brought "A great reinforcement to our councils and our spirits," according to Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

I was particularly struck by the religious note in the great address of General Smuts. He sees the war as at bottom "a war of the spirit, of man's soul—a resistance to regression to the pagan past and to the Nazi denial of the spiritual forces which have carried us forward and the Christian advance which constitutes the essence of European civilization."

He indicted Hitler for trampling under foot "the great faith which has nourished the west and proved the greatest dynamic of all human history, and made western civilization the proudest achievement of man," and for stamping on "the human virtues which we had learned to cultivate under the symbol of the Cross."

Put alongside the above statement from General Smuts the following words from Vice Chairman Charles E. Wilson, of the War Production Board, and former head of the General Electric Company:

"The time has come when we Americans must recapture our religious faith and fervor. We must recognize that faith in God is as essential to the well being of man as bread and meat—that the peace cannot be won alone with men and guns and tanks and airplanes and ships. God must become the generating force of our lives—in the home, in the factory, in the office, in the government, on the street. God must be there and we, all of us, must be conscious of His presence."

ence. We must reshape our way of life so that, like the founders of our nation, we live not by bread alone but by an indwelling spirit which emerges only from the depths of our souls, even from God.

"When our nation was founded more than a century and a half ago, it was the product not only of a political theory but of spiritual convictions and a deep faith in God. . . . They looked to Him for guidance in all human undertakings and relationships. He shaped their way of life. It is evident that the present global war threatens not only the democratic principles on which our nation was built but the very privileges of these spiritual convictions. As we face this fact, we realize that many of us have neglected and failed to take full or even partial advantage of these privileges. We see that our way of life has not been essentially God-controlled."

"We therefore call upon our American people to renew or to discover their faith in God. We call them to nurture that faith through active affiliation and association with the church of their choice. We call them to regular worship and fervent prayer. . . ."

SALVADOR, Bahia State, Brazil, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The state government today ordered an immediate investigation of officials recently ousted for an order that freed 28 imprisoned Axis subjects.

Official reports said 25 former prisoners already had been recaptured, two more surrendered voluntarily, and the other still was missing. Those rearrested, they added, were suspected of espionage.

Marine Patrols Mopping Up in Jungle Fighting

51 Japanese Killed, Artillery Pieces Taken on Guadalcanal.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Fighting through the jungle on Guadalcanal, American troops are carrying on a mopping-up operation against scattered enemy groups, the Navy reported today.

In one day of what the Navy describes as "patrol operations" soldiers and Marines knocked out at least three enemy installations, killing 51 of the Japanese, capturing three light artillery pieces and taking six machineguns.

A Marine Corps patrol fighting along the upper reaches of the Lunga river, had the best bag. These Marines killed 25 of the enemy and captured two field pieces—a 75 millimeter and a 35-millimeter gun.

Lunga river, west of the Henderson airport, the prize of the battle on Guadalcanal, leads to the sea on the northwest coast of the island at Lunga Point, where some Japanese landings have been effected.

At the same time an Army patrol seeking out the enemy located another artillery emplacement and captured a 70-millimeter gun. In that engagement 11 Japanese were killed.

Machineguns were the objective of another Marine patrol. This group captured six of the guns—whether in a single nest or scattered in the thickets was not disclosed—and killed 15 Japanese.

Meanwhile, Army planes continued strafing and dropping enemy installations on the island in what has become a regular job of finding, then endeavoring to eliminate, enemy positions. On the most recent flight reported the planes located and attacked four enemy positions, the Navy said. Results of their attacks were not announced.

DEFENSES MINISTER

ON SUNDAY MOVIES.

Editor, Constitution: Your editorial of November 25 entitled "Blindness of Fanaticism," gives the impression that Dr. R. A. Forrest is unsympathetic with the needs of the soldiers at Camp Toccoa entertainment and relaxation on Sunday.

As a resident of the community of Toccoa Falls Institute, I should like to state that soldiers are welcomed every Sunday noon in the institute dining room, one Sunday a larger number than usual, as personal guests of Dr. Forrest. The boys come to the campus every Sunday afternoon to enjoy the beauties of nature and a social time with the girls of the school. Two young women students have been appointed as hostesses in the reception room of Le Tournean Hall, a girls' dormitory, and members of the faculty have given their time in helping to entertain them.

Dr. Forrest said that he did not want to approach this problem of Sunday entertainment in a negative way only, therefore he arranged for an informal hour of music and group singing, according to his own words, "not another service," to be held in the Presbyterian church on Sunday afternoons.

I cannot see that the soldiers will suffer pathetically because of his stand on Sunday movies because he does not object to soldiers attending with their "dates," but he does object to an entrance fee being charged for the girls and other civilians being admitted. MRS. GEORGE SHAW. Toccoa Falls, Ga.

PERUVIAN POINTS OUT TWO ERRORS IN NEWS

Editor, Constitution: I am a native of Peru and have been watching with interest the news of the war in South America. In a recent article that appeared in your paper you stated that President Del Rio was the first South American President to visit this country since the declaration of war by this country. May I point out that President Manuel Prado, of Peru, came to this country about the first of last March.

This same article states that Ecuador is situated between Bolivia and Peru. You will note that Ecuador doesn't even touch Bolivia, and is bounded by Colombia. ISAAC VARON. Atlanta.

"I am a SOLDIER of the Wires"

"With the approaching holidays, I am thinking more and more of the problems which confront us operators in getting Uncle Sam's war calls through, so I decided to speak right out and ask for the help I feel sure everyone is willing to give.

"You know that we operators have a real job to do for Uncle Sam. Every day we put through countless calls from growing Army camps, humming war industries and busy government agencies—calls that we 'soldiers of the wires' know must go through—calls that speed our Nation on to Victory!

"This December, war will take no holiday and Uncle Sam will be using the telephone more than ever. Therefore, we operators are asking you to help us by not making holiday greeting long distance calls this year. We urge that no such calls be made, especially on Christmas Eve, Christmas Day or New Year's Eve.

"I know it is asking a lot, but Uncle Sam surely needs these long distance lines and when he needs them—it's right now! I know we can count on your cooperation."

Army Pilots Dive Planes At 12 Miles Per Minute

FARMINGDALE, N. Y., Dec. 2. (AP)—Two U. S. Army lieutenants recently dived P-47 Thunderbolt fighter planes at a speed of 725 miles an hour—more than 12 miles a minute—it was revealed today.

The Republic Aviation Corporation, in an announcement which it said was approved for publication by the War Department, said that on November 15 Lieutenant Harold Comstock, of Fresno, Cal., and Lieutenant Roger Dyer, of Lowell, Ohio, both 22, hurtled downward in power dives so fast their control sticks were "frozen."

Both reported that they resorted to emergency devices to pull out of the dives.

Flying Cross Awarded Oregon Farmer by King

LONDON, Dec. 2. (AP)—Roy G. Munson, 28-year-old farmer from Halsey, Ore., who piloted Wellington bombers on 27 raids over Germany and Italy and always brought his plane home despite damage, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross by King George.

On 13 of his trips, Munson's ships were damaged badly, but he brought his plane back safely each time.

Munson was a farmer before joining the RAF in 1941. He was decorated this week along with others in his crew, including three Australians and an English rear gunner.

"Hard up" that used stove, heater, fur coat, radio, gun, etc., "corral" cash by advertising them in the Want Ads of The Constitution.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

About ten years ago I wrote that you can defeat an army but you could not defeat a people.

The defenses of Moscow, Leningrad and Stalingrad prove that. But we can go back farther than that when all cities were walled and all citizens were soldiers.

It lifts the morale in coast cities like New York and San Francisco. And shows what can happen when the lads who live in town really go to town.

The classic example of all time is the Paris of 1790 that fought the world and the rest of France. And as for Stalingrad's house-to-house struggle it looks like the Shickelgruber salesman didn't sell a brush.

Jap Patrol Parties Lose Face, Refuse To Rejoin Main Forces

GUADALCANAL, Nov. 25.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Japanese patrol parties which have lost face because they have been defeated by United States Marines apparently have made little or no effort to rejoin the main Japanese forces, Marines returning from jungle fighting reported today.

The Marines said in a number of instances in which they surprised small Japanese parties they found the enemy soldiers had been living apart from the main forces for a considerable time. In many cases, the Americans added, the Japs had built crude places of habitation in the jungles. Living off the land, they had not been supplied with arms, ammunition or food.

As one instance they cited the discovery of remnants of a Japanese force near Tenaru river where the Japs suffered a major defeat in the first big land battle August 21. These Japs lived three months in the Tenaru jungle and they had plenty of opportunities to rejoin the main forces if they had so desired.

Meanwhile, the main land offensive on the northwest beach front is still progressing satisfactorily.

Word was received late yesterday of a group of Marines commanded by Lieutenant Gordon Maples, of Middleboro, Ky., which surprised and ambushed a party of 150 to 200 Japanese officers and men on the southwest slope of a grassy knoll about seven miles southwest of Henderson field.

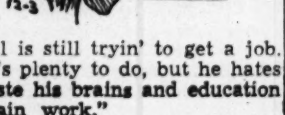

The Japanese were eating breakfast and 30 were killed by the first volley of Marine rifle and submachinegun fire. More were killed by following volleys.

Some Japanese trying to escape through the jungle encountered a small force of Marines who had cut around to the rear.

The total score was at least 70 Japanese killed and only two slight injuries in the ranks of the Americans.
